3 Face Sniper Charges

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Two men and a woman were arraigned on charges of second-degree murder today in the death of a truck driver whose 21- ton cargo of dynamite exploded when apparently struck by a bullet Wednesday.

Bond of $100,000 each was set by Magistrate E. A. Barbour of Greene County Court, who scheduled a preliminary hearing Oct. 21.

Charged with second degree murder are Bobby Lee Shuler, 29, Gerald Lee Bowden, 29, and his wife, Sharon Lynn Bowden, 27, all of Joplin, Mo. The men were identified as striking truck drivers.

Two other men questioned through the day were released Wednesday night.

A woman who had been questioned was released by county authorities but was kept in Greene County jail as a witness for federal authorities.

In Kansas City today Burt C. Hurn, U. S. district attorney, said federal officials have been participating in the investigation and that some of the persons involved including the woman held in Springfield are expected to appear before a U. S. grand jury in Kansas City Friday.

John Galt, 48, of Oklahoma City, the driver of the truck, was killed in the blast which left a hole 30 feet deep and 50 feet wide in Interstate 44 about 12 miles west of Springfield.

The truck was operated by Tri-State Motors, Inc., of Joplin, which has continued operations despite a strike by Teamsters that began Sept. 14.

R.E. Perkins, vice president of the firm, said Shuler and Bowden had worked for the firm before the strike and were members of Teamsters Local 823.

Bill Kitts, president of the local, said today Shuler and Bowden were members of the union.

Jim Mitchel, agent in charge of the FBI office here, said he was investigating the case for possible filing of federal charges of destruction of interstate property.

The truck, loaded with 21 tons of the explosives, was en route to a mining area in southeastern Missouri, Perkins said.

He said the vehicle was part of a three-truck convoy and at least one of the other trucks, which carried no load, was fired at.

A witness said he saw a shot fired at Galt's truck from a car and followed it. Police later found an abandoned car matching the description and bearing Tennessee plates.

Highway patrol investigators found a 30-30 rifle and expended cartridges along an exit ramp of the four-lane highway.

The shock wave of the blast rolled through Springfield like an earthquake and was felt 15 miles away.

Galt, a father of five children, had telephoned his wife in Oklahoma City from Joplin Tuesday night to let her know he had found work. It was his first run for Tri-State after being out of a job several weeks.

Bomb Scare Empties Factory

A woman telephone caller who said there was a bomb scheduled to "blow within the hour" resulted this morning in the evacuation of 476 employes at the International Shoe Company plant.

The unidentified woman first called at 7:40 a.m. with the bomb threat. Another phone call believed to be from the same woman was received at 8:22 a.m. warned the reported bomb would "go off any minute."

No bomb went off and employes resumed work at 8:40 a.m.

F. L. Rudd, plant superintendent, said "I have no idea" why the threat was made. Last night the company settled a contract, with local 120A of the CIO Boot and Shoe Workers Union but Rudd said there had been no disgruntlement over it.

Company officials called police and sheriff's officers. The building was searched but no bomb was found.

Sheriff John Dennis learned from Rudd that someone stays in the building throughout the night. The sheriff said it would be hard for anyone to "get anything in here."

A check with company officials showed no one leaving the premises this morning prior to the bomb scare. Charles Laird, officer manager, said he knows of no one who recently has become angry at the company because of discontinued employment.

The initial call was received by a secretary, Edith Ford. The second call was received by Laird.

"I didn't get a chance to say anything to her," Laird said. "She said the place was gonna go up any minute."

Laird said there had been no previous threats.

Autopsy Awaited in Probe

NEW MADRID — County Coroner Gene Clayton said his office is awaiting results of an autopsy performed this morning in the investigation of the death yesterday of Kenneth Gene Siemers, 37, Cape Girardeau, Siemers fell 25 feet from a crane at the Noranda Aluminum Company construction site.

Dr. Pin H. Pu, patholigist of Dexter, performed the autopsy at Kennett.

Sherriff W. L. "Cowboy" Ramsey, Clayton, and coroner jurors, Raz Jones, Jim Edwards, Roy Shelby, Sam Bodine, John Alfred Hunter, and Jimmy Farrenberg yestereday visited the scene and viewed the body.

Clayton said an inquest will be held when the autopsy report is received.

No eye-witnesses to the accident, Clayton said, have been located.

Fiscal Session Urged

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The chairman of the appropriations committee of the Missouri House said today he has asked Gov. Warren E. Hearnes for a special session of the Legislature and has proposed a revenue plan he said would produce an additional $67 million a year.

Rep. E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell, D-Overland, said his plan would include establishment of a 3 per cent sales tax on all advertising, to produce an estimated annual yield of $35 million; elimination of tax exemptions on quarry and mining operations, to produce $25 million, and elimination of the tax exemption on newsprint, to produce $7 million.

He said he also suggested a formula be established by which some of the yield would be shared with the cities.

Hearnes thanked him for the suggestions and said he would talk with Cantrell about it later.

Cantrell said in a statement "I recognize my suggestion will not be popular with the special interests that are presently exempted. However, I am of the firm opinion the projected measures are fair and if enacted by the General Assembly, along with a revised income tax on individuals and corporations, would provide adequate funds for the needs of Missouri during the immediate crisis and avert a similar situation for the next budget year and possibly for a period beyond that."

Last April 7 the voters soundly defeated the governor's proposed income tax reform law that was supposed to boost state revenues by $106 million in 18 months of collections.

Cantrell said at his own expense he is sending out 6,000 copies of his proposal to all sorts of Missourians, including school officials, nursing home operators, legislators and others to get their reaction.

He based the estimates on what the proposal would provide in additional revenue on figures supplied him by John H. Elliott, administartive assistant in the Department of Revenue.

In a memorandum to Cantrell dated Sept. 30, Elliott said "The Department of Revenue regards the foregoing figures as conservative. While not guaranteed to be precisely accurate, we nevertheless regard these figures entirely reasonable."

Masses Honor Nasser

CAIRO (AP) — Gamal Abdel Nasser, hero of the Arab world, was laid to rest wrapped in a simple white sheet today after a funeral that provided an emotional explosion for millions of adoring Egyptians.

Nasser's body was taken from the casket after prayers by Egypt's top religious leader, Sheik Mohammed Fahhan, preacher at the centuries old Al-Zahar mosque.

Verses from the Moslem Holy book, the Koran, were read by religious leaders as they placed Nasser's body in the grave in the garden of the Manshiet el Bakry mosque in a Cairo suburb.

Outside the mosque thousands of distraught Egyptians cried and shouted as their adored leader was interred.

Solemn-faced Egyptian dignitaries, not striving to hold back their tears, lined up at the graveside as the body was lowered. People broke through and rushed into the mosque garden to see the final moments of Nasser's funeral. The flag covering the casket was torn.

It was an emotional explosion for the Egyptians and the Arab world.

An explosion which began as millions of wailing, tearful Arabs and Egyptians massed along the 13-mile funeral route as an army helicopter started their beloved leader on his final journey.

As the procession began moving slowly away from the island, there was the thud of a 101-gun salute fired from Cairo's Citadel, the ancient fortress dominating the city.

The first mile was reserved for the official mourners but from there, the radio said, "the funeral belongs to the people."

Moslems throughout the Arab world planned to pray in their own mosques, and processions were planned in the streets of cities and villages throughout the Middle East.

Arabs in Israel and the Israeli-held territories also mourned. The biggest demonstration of grieving for Nasser was at Al Aqsa mosque in Jerusalem's ancient walled city. Thousands of Moslems shouted "God is great!" and chanted "Nasser, Nasser."

On the other side of the wall thousands of Jews were deep in prayer marking the start of the Jewish new year.

A huge procession was planned in Beirut, and Christians in the Lebanese capital decided to honor the Arab leader with prayers in their churches.

Among the world leaders in Cairo were President Makarios of Cyprus, Premier Jacques Chablan-Delmas of France and Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas Home of Britain. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliott Richardson represented the United States.

14 Nations Favor U. N. Hijack Item

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Fourteen countries of Asia, Europe and Latin America had a letter ready to submit to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant today asking that the General Assembly put on its agenda an item titled "Aerial Hijacking or Interference with Civil Air Travel."

Their action came two days after the release of the last six hijack hostages held in Jordan by Palestinian guerrillas.

The six, all Americans, arrived in the United States Wednesday night.

In a reciprocal agreement, Britain, Switzerland and West Germany freed seven Arab commandos, including 24-year-old Leila Khaled. They arrived in Cairo today.

In a recent public speech, U Thant proposed that an international tribunal be established to try suspected hijackers.

Romulo found, he said later, that the idea was too complicated, but he got the agreement of many countries to ask that the hijacking problem go on the agenda.

Nixons Visit Tito's Boyhood Home

KUMROVEC, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Nixon and President Tito, having spent two hours talking over world problems in Belgrade, came to this old home town of the Yugoslav president today in a pouring rain. Their wives and aides accompanied them.

Almost every one of the 283 residents of the village were on hand to greet them despite the cold, wet weather. They came here from Zagreb, the Croatian capital, by car because the bad weather barred a planned helicopter trip.

In Belgrade, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said the two presidents explored in their talks means of settling the Middle East crisis that would take into account Palestinian interests.

"The need was expressed ... that conditions be created for a peaceful solution of the present political crisis and that care be taken over all aspects of this complicated international problem, including the interests of the people of Palestine," Tanjug said.

Beside U.S.-Yugoslav cooperation, Nixon and Tito devoted their greatest attention to "the present situation in the Middle East following the death of President Nasser.

The two presidents also stated their policies on Indochina, Tanjug said, meaning Tito repeated Belgrade demands for full withdrawal of U.S. forces.

There was no indication immediately what trend the Nixon-Tito conversations in the federal executive council building took, but undoubtedly they covered the difficult situation in the Middle East.

Nixon arrived at Tito's office half an hour behind schedule. By prearrangement with the Yugoslav leader, he had stopped en route to meet with Dragoslav Markovic, president of Serbia, largest of the country's six republics.

After spending about 15 minutes in the downtown Serbian Council Building—and receiving from Markovic a bronze sculpture entitled "Mother and Child" for the White House collection, Nixon went to the Federal Executive Council Building for his meeting with Tito.

For several downtown blocks, crowds were almost as large as when the President arrived in Belgrade Wednesday.

Moscow Protests Anti-Soviet Acts

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union lodged a protest with the U.S. Embassy today charging that "an unbridled anti-Soviet campaign is being conducted in the United States for some time now by Zionist organizations."

"The government of the U.S.S.R. insists resolutely that the government of the United States should take all the necessary measures to cut short the dangerous actions of the Zionist extremists, which arouse the legitimate indignation of the Soviet public," the note said.

in Washington, the State Department declined immediate comment, saying the text of the note had not been seen as yet.

The protest said the campaign is accompanied by threats and provocations against institutions and representatives of the Soviet Union in the United States.

School Tangle Begins Easing

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis area's tangled public school situation began clearing up a bit Wednesday with the approval of school levies in districts where tax propositions had failed repeatedly.

Voters in St. Louis County's Ritenour district gave a 67.7 per cent majority to a $4.77 per $100 assessed valuation levy.

In St. Charles County, Wentzville district voters gave a $5.43 levy a 72.8 per cent majority.

The Wentzville Board of Education met immediately and voted to open schools Friday. School doors have remained closed to the district's 3,000 students this fall because of a lack of funds.

Two districts, Hazelwood and Riverview Gardens are operating without tax levies. Public schools in neighboring East St. Louis remain closed by a teachers' strike

Pornography Report Blasted Both for Going Too Far and Not Far Enough

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission's call for repeal of U.S. adult antismut laws has been blasted as "the Denmark option" by three dissenting members—but two others say it doesn't go far enough.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew dismissed the 18-member Commission on Obscenity and Pornography report out of hand during a speech in Salt Lake City Wednesday night. He called it a product of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's administration.

"It's not our baby," Agnew said of the 12-member majority's report. "This commission was not named by President Nixon...As long as Richard Nixon is President, Main Street is not going to turn into Smut Alley."

However, two members of the commission, both sociologists, said the panel should have recommended repeal of all U.S. antismut laws, including those banning the sale of pornography to children.

"There is no substantial evidence that exposure to juveniles is necessarily harmful," said professor Otto N. Larsen of the University of Washington and Marvin E. Wolfgang, chairman of the University of Pennsylvania's sociology department.

"There may even be beneficial effects," they said, "if for no other reason than the encouragement of open discussion about sex between parents and children relatively early in young lives."

But Charles H. Keating Jr., President Nixon's only appointee to the commission, accused the panel of "following the Pied Piper of Denmark." He said its proposals would turn the United States into a "pagan, animalistic" country if Congress paid any attention to them.

The commission's recommendations Wednesday to repeal adult censorship laws but enact laws against publicly displaying obscene pictures or selling them to children would parallel Denmark's liberal sex laws.

The commission said it was not opening the door to live sex shows like Denmark's, which it said would remain subject to local indecent exposure, sodomy and disorderly conduct laws.

Chairman William B. Lockhart, dean of the University of Minnesota school of law, did not disavow the Denmark comparison at a news conference, although he denied the commission was following Denmark's laws.

He said there might be a short-lived increase in U.S. demand for erotica if adult laws were repealed "but as in Denmark that will not be lasting." He said in the long run U.S. demand for erotica probably would decrease, as he said it has in Denmark.

Father Morton A. Hill of New York City, who joined Keating and the Rev. Winfrey C. Link of Hermitage, Tenn., in accusing the commission of slanting its report in favor of the pornography industry, said the effect of repeal would not be the same in America as in Denmark.

"The United States is not Denmark," he said. "Denmark does not have the crime we do, the unrest, the explosiveness. The Danes themselves told me when I was there these laws would bring disaster to America."

The commission's long-expected recommendations got little immediate reaction from Congress but one of the key proposals in Hill, Keating and Link's minority report was immediately introduced in the House.

It would add a definition to federal antiobscenity law specifying that "social redeeming value"—the basis on which a number of sexy films and books have been ruled not obscene by the courts—is not a legitimate test of obscenity.

The bill was introduced by Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., of the House Post Office Committee which has begun public hearings into the commission's conduct and findings.

Danforth Spurns Hearnes

Wednesday Danforth declined to discuss with the governor the administration's pluses and minuses as Hearnes had suggested.

"It is the people of Missouri, not I, who deserve to hear your explanations of what has been going on in our state government."

Danforth said he referred to explanations of whether the administration was involved in the failure of the bank of Bonne Terre, Mo., the expense accounts approved for State Department of Agriculture employes and the difficulties of the Department of Revenue.

"During the past year," Danforth wrote the governor, "your administration has been repeatedly rocked by scandal. The people of Missouri have lost confidence in their state government. Since you have initiated attacks against me, I believe it is especially appropriate for you to put your own house in order."

Patrolman Shot to Death

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A patrolman was shot to death today when a man he stopped for questioning fired a shotgun blast at point blank range, police reported.

Patrolman John Burke, 27, died of a neck wound.

His death was the 15th in the nation this year in apparently unprovoked attacks on police officers.

Police said Burke, a member of the city's K-9 squad, had gotten out of his station wagon in the heart of the city's main business district to question two Negro men.

Without warning, police said, one of the men drew a shotgun and fired. Burke's dog, Thor, was still in the wagon, tied to a post.

Police later issued a warrant for the arrest of Clarence D. Holmes, 22, of Atlantic City.

We notice in some of the literature of Bill Burlison, who is a candidate for re- election for Congressman from the 10th District, that he was Prosecuting Attorney of Cape Girardeau County three terms. He was Assistant Attorney General of Missouri under three Attorney Generals: John Dalton, later Governor of Missouri; Thomas Eagleton, now Senator of Missouri; Norman Anderson, past Attorney General of Missouri. He was head of the General Courts - Martial Prosecutor, Second Marine Division, U.S. Marine Corps, Camp Lejeune, North Carolina. He was President of Missouri State Prosecuting Attorneys Association (1967). Graduated with honors from U.S. School of Naval Justice, Newport, Rhode Island. Graduated from Missouri University School of Law. Member of the Missouri Bar Association (14 years). Member of American Bar Association (9 years). Member of Cape County Bar Association (9 years). Admitted to Practice U.S. Supreme Court, U.S. Court of Military Appeals, U.S. District Court, and all Missouri Courts. Member of the Missouri Peace Officers Association. Member of the National District Attorneys Association. Vice- Chairman of the Missouri Bar Committee on Criminal Law. Member of the American Bar Association Committee on Criminal Law.

This is what Bill Burlison has done, but we notice that the American Legion called on Gary Rust to come down and crown some of the Tots, which I presume is all right, but if I had anything to do with it we'd have some Democrats down here.

I really get quite a bang out of the press releases and the speeches that Gary Rust is making in his campaign against Bill Burlison. I wonder if anybody believes what he says. I wonder if they think he'll do what he thinks he'll do, if he should happen to get there, which I don't think he's going to. But that doesn't make any difference what I think nor how I'm going to vote. But I just think that people ought to remembr that when you're not in office you can make any kind of remark that you want to make and some people believe, but most of them don't.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT?

Inconceivable as it may seem to the hard- pressed taxpayer, forced ever closer to an austerity existence by crushing taxes and inflation, the wheels of the bureaucratic spending machine in Washington, D.C., are still well - oiled by endless proposals to launch the government into commercial business enterprises such as electric power. A classic instance has been the Dickey - Lincoln School federal hydroelectric project in the state of Maine.

This project has come before Congress many times and has been rejected in each instance. On the occasion of its most recent reintroduction, Congressman Frank M. Clark of Pennsylvania remarked, ' 'It is hoped that the House Appropriations Committee will not allow funds for this patently absurd Dickey project..." Congressman Clark proceeds to list the facts that explain why Dickey-Lincoln has been turned down by Congress for six years. "First. The projects will waste close to one- half billion of taxpayers' money: Second. It would produce power for only 2 hours a day at an exorbitant cost and located over 400 miles from where the power is needed; Third. It would be highly destructive to the natural beauty of the St. Johns River and is actively opposed by a multitude of conservation groups."

The investor- owned electric industry pays heavy taxes for the ' 'privilege" of serving the power consumer of the nation. In carrying out its task, which requires the investment of billions of dollars of new capital every year, it is a close ally of the general taxpayer as a supporter of government. It should not be handicapped in its job of producing power, as well as tax revenue, by political schemes to add tax- exempt commercial electric power projects to the government's many other activities-- projects with which no taxpaying private enterprise can compete and the cost of which becomes just another burder to taxpayers.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Acre for acre, life in Manhattan is noisier and probably more deadly than in any Brazilian jungle.

Everybody hates his own picture in his high school yearbook when it is first published, but 25 years later, glancing through it, he decides he wasn't such a bad-looking kid after all.

Four out of five men have something hidden in their office desks that they wouldn't want members of their family to see. How about you?

The human race will never be universally courteous and helpful until the Lord sends down an affliction that will force every member of it to use crutches at least one day a week.

Whenever I see anyone eating a piece of pizza pie with every outward appearance of enjoyment, I deplore his taste but admire his stomach—and wish only that he were wrecking it in a nobler cause.

An old-timer is one who remembers when no family went on a picnic without taking along a tin cup.

One of the things that bothers me about dogs in a big city is that so many of them live out their existences without ever having the fun of burying a bone in a backyard.

One solution of the miniskirt maxiskirt controversy that has upset style conscious women would be to have them wear mini-length petticoats and over them a maxiskirt made of seethrough plastic. That would certainly solve the problem from the male point of view.

Some people make it a point of pride never to be unduly stirred by anything. When shown Niagara Falls for example, Oscar Wilde remarked only that they would be far more impressive if the water ran the other way.

Mischief must be rare in heaven. Otherwise long ago some merry angel would have painted a beard on the rainbow.

There is a connection between brains and money—but not a happy one. It doesn't take a lot of brains to make a lot of money; even a little money, however, can at times upset the brainest of men.

One of the reasons many people wouldn't want to live their lives over again is that they can't stand the thought of having to fill out all those government forms a second time.

TWO-WAY STREET OF LABOR, INDUSTRY

Current or upcoming major negotiations in eight key industries — trucking, railroads, construction, rubber, automobiles, apparel, meat packing and farm machinery — will directly involve some 5 million workers this year.

Union leaders are serving notice that they intend to get substantial wage increases for their members in an attempt to catch cup with inflation and in spite of warnings that excessive wage settlements will only fan inflation the more. The Teamsters, for one, are demanding wage and benefit increases totaling more than 95 per cent over a three -year period.

All in all, 1970 could shape up as the most strife -torn, strike -torn year in the nation's history, with the number of decalrations of war between labor and management topping 1969's record 5,600.

This gloomy forecast comes from the National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, who accompany their warning with a position paper calling for basic labor law reforms and urging Congress to "inquire into the dangerous imbalance of power favoring labor over management and to consider legislative means for correcting that imbalance to protect the public interest.'.

The paper claims that pro -union decisions by the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) and the courts have contributed to a tremendous growth in union power since World War II, giving unions a dominant position over the economy.

"These decisions subordinate the rights of individual employes to the organized power of unions; encroach upon management's authority to operate efficiently; enable unions to apply coercive pressures on union members, employers and even the government itself, and give unions special privileges not enjoyed by any other segment of society."

Pro -unionists, of course, will question business' tender concern for the public interest and the rights of individual workers and can point out that if there are cases where unions have become too strong, there are just as many where workers have not been unionized enough or at all.

Employes of an Akron, Ohio, department store, for example, have for several years been trying to join the Retail Clerks union. They have followed all the rules and in at least two secret -ballot elections have voted overwhelmingly for union representation.

But resistance by management and excessive devotion to red tape by NLRB officials continue to deny these workers the right of collective bargaining. In the meantime, employer -employe relations deteriorate and eventually a strike may be the workers' last recourse.

The Akron example is a replay in miniature of what it was like in the old days when the major industries fiercely resisted unionization. We have not really come very far since then.

All industry has benefited from the expansion of the economy, brought about in large measure by the payment of a decent wage to workers. So, too, have workers benefited from a system which allows management to run its business in a way that brings in a reasonable profit.

Yet far too often do employer and employe still believe that the one is the enemy of the other and that the one is to be exploited by the other, rather than realizing that niether could exist without the other. Power is used against power, resulting in abuses by both sides.

The C of C and the NAM are right in calling for basic reforms. But the reforms are needed not only in law but in attitudes as well.

WHEN IS A WORD AN ACCEPTABLE WORD?

What makes a combination of letters a word? And how is a new word accepted by the lexicographer of society?

A Penn State professor of speech, Dr. Gerald Phillips, wants to find out. So he has coined the new word called khulyages. "I do not know what it means, I urge you to use it every chance you get and hopefully it will acquire creditability and meaning," he told his class. "There are really no good common American words that start with K-H in our dictionary anyway, and it will be a boon to Scrabble fans all over the world."

One unidentified youngster who slipped this note under Dr. Phillips' door one day said, "Khulyages is a situation in which alternatives are perfectly clear, but what is not clear is whether the alternatives are any better than the situation. Example: You're in a cafeteria and you have a tuna and noodle casserole in front of you when all of a sudden you realize they're also serving Sloppy Joes and Chop Suey."

H.L. Hunt Says

IS IT WORTH IT?

The American oil industry has been under attack by politicians who apparently wish to gain favor with some elements in our society by destroying this vital industry. They have sought legislation to deny oil operators tax incentives enjoyed by other industries and to legislate a shelter system which would give foreign producers advantages over U.S. operators in our domestic market.

Their excuse for favoring foreign oil is a claim that it would bring lower prices to the U.S. consumer, but more careful analysis shows that such a situation would probably save the average motorist only about one -tenth of one cent per gallon on petroleum products, or about one dollar per year. For this, the import zealots advocate measures which would endanger, if not destroy, the U.S. oil industry, which is the chief source of power for national defense.

The basic prices of oil and gasoline and other petroleum products are much the same today as they were four decades ago when the percentage depletion tax allowance was instituted to spur exploration and production. Production has been the key to keeping oil prices down, in the face of spiraling inflation. The gradual increase of federal and state taxes on petroleum products has caused the higher prices which consumers now pay for gasoline and oil.

The U.S. oil industry employs millions of people, in production, supply, and transportation. All these families would be directly affected by destruction of the oil industry, which seems to be what a few politicians are willing to do in order to gain some short -range political benefits for themselves. Inside Labor

RAPPING THE HARDHATS: Nixon Adviser Says He'll Get Justice Dept. To Force Black Workers Into Construction Unions

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- At least one of President Nixon's inner circle is swinging hard at the hard hats -- and when he hits , he hits. He's big. He's black. He carries a long, deceivingly innocent title which nonetheless has a longer, tougher built -in club. It can affect tens of billions of dollars worth of government construction.

He is the 45 -year -old Art Fletcher, Assistant Secretary of Labor for Workplace Standards Administration.

The other day Art Fletcher, who once played end for the Los Angeles Rams and Baltimore Colts, tackled the entire labor movement. In effect, he warned the Pentagon that there would have to be more black workers on all of its construction projects.

Later that day, Mr. Fletcher, who is one of Mr. Nixon's favorite dinner guests be it in the State Dining room or the East Room (and I've encountered him on the second floor at some gatherings), told a caller that he was ready to crack down on the labor movement if more blacks were not admitted to the top income constructive unions. And other unions as well.

He said he was examining his "options." He added that he was collecting "evidence" to prove that union hiring halls were keeping blacks from employment. And so, said he, were union seniority lists. If necessary, he said with characteristic blunt finality -- like picking up an over -the -line pass and running head down -- he would go to the Justice Dept. for action against the hiring halls. He would attempt to set aside seniority lists on which promotions into higher paying job classifications are based.

These were his replies when the caller had asked what he meant when he had said that "the moment of truth" had come for American labor.

He had told a Congressional subcommittee tha he had "found that business and industry want to comply. All they want to know is 'tell us what you want us to do and we'll do it.' " He also had said that he was taking a hard look at "a whole industry that operates under exclusive hiring contracts. It may be that every company in that industry is not in compliance because of the labor contracts. We're really just moving into it to be bluntly frank."

He would not disclose which "entire industry" but other sources disclosed he meant beer brewing.

Mr. Fletcher and the labor movement's top leaders are at thorny odds. AFL -CIO President George Meany himself went out of his way at a recent Sheet Metal Workers international convention to retort to a series of similar charges of blocking the blacks from unions and high paying hourly rated jobs.

Mr. Meany's position is that the "only way minority groups could come into the skilled trades "is by the apprenticeship route." They must learn the trade, says he. Then he whipped at his critics.

"There are some people who make a profession of being civil righters," Mr. Meany said a week before Mr. Fletcher cut loose, "who want to right the wrongs, as they say, of many years past. They want something that might be described as instant qualification that instantly qualifies a member of the minority group as a member of one of our unions and as a mechanic."

Mr. Meany added that "the unions will not buy" instant qualification. The nation's top labor chief reported he had told this to George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

To take in half -qualified black young workers would be "a fraud on the trade" and "a fraud and a delusion to the young Negro applicants, because if they became members under those circumstances, they could not work on the job that required a full skill, either as a plumber, electrician, sheet metal worker, engineer, or anyone else."

The labor chief said that the AFL-CIO is recruiting applications through "Operation Outreach" in 70 major cities and have had "well over 7000 minority applicants, 60 per cent of them in the so-called highly skilled trades... " The Philadelphia plan, said he, is a "phony."

This resentment against consistent critics also was reflected in a recent angry speech unleashed by the carpenters' union president Maurice Hutcheson.

"... in spite of all our policy statements," said Mr. Hutcheson, "in spite of all our sincere efforts, in spite of all our successful working programs, in spite of all our desires to have a larger and better trained labor force, we are constantly harassed by bureaucrats and so-called 'liberals.' We make jobs available and jobs go unfilled. We offer training programs and no one shows up."

Then he attacked the critics of the construction unions as being "not one bit interested in obtaining work or training ..." for "those members of the minority they pretend to speak for and help ..."

Mr. Hutcheson charged these critics were using the issue for personal publicity or to advance themselves politically and "to cover up for their own inadequacies."

Mr. Hutcheson further charged these critics were motivated by reasons "not related to the problem."

And it is quite a problem. It will get noisier as the war fronts get quieter -- and the destruction of the enemy abroad is replaced by reconstruction of the cities at home.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Florida has opened the gates of its notorious state prison at Raiford to this column.

My associate, Les Whitten, was taken on an unprecedented backroom tour by an ex-convict, who dared to come back and point out the horrors. They found shocking conditions that, according to the evidence in our files, aren't unique to Florida but exist in prisons throughout the country.

As Florida's prison czar Dr. James Bax had promised, the authorities allowed Whitten to speak privately with prisoners and to dig deeply into prison records. Bax also gave his word there would be no retribution against prisoners. This may be a more difficult promise for him to keep from his distant office in Tallahassee.

Several inmates whispered out their woes or pressed written accounts of their experiences into Whitten's hands. Already, reports have reached us of ugly retaliation against those whom the guards suspected of giving information.

Flint -faced guards also glowered at Whitten's guide, John Ricardo, a handsome, 34 -year -old ex-burglar, whose former cellmates hissed a warning through bars that, in reprisal, he might be "set up" and arrested on a phony charge by friends of prison officers.

MEDICAL BEDLAM

The most depressing place was the hospital where Whitten saw patients lying in the halls like beggars in Bedlam, trying to get a doctor's attention. Cockroaches skittered up the walls and ants filed busily to food spots on the floor.

In an earlier column, based upon affidavits and smuggled documents, we told of a man who lost his hand through negligence and another with roaches in his head wound. Prison officials scoffed at the stories.

Whitten searched out Milt Frank, a convict with half his hand gone, who swore that a medical technician, J.J. Murphy, had refused him adequate treatment. Murphy, in a long interview, denied it.

The prison records show Murphy diagnosed the swollen, gangrenous hand as a fracture and sent Frank to the University of Florida hospital for treatment. There, the records show it was 40 hours after a fall caused his hand to swell before he reached the university hospital only 35 miles away.

Whitten also talked to Tony Antone who, despite fear of retribution, said roaches had crawled down his face twice after his head bandages were unwound. On one occasion, he swore, hospital personnel had to pick the insects out of the wound.

UNSPEAKABLE NEGLECT

"Gradually, I'm losing the use of my legs," whispered Daniel Benitez, 32, hoarsely. "It's driving me crazy." Paralyzed from the waist down by a bullet, Benitez has needed physical therapy and braces for a year. But the hospital hasn't found money even to buy him a urine bag that doesn't leak.

Another paraplegic, Leroy Toombs, 21, wheeled up and pleaded: "I could walk if I had some braces." The once husky Negro, now down to 95 pounds, lifted his pajama pants to show a pair of pipestem legs.

Still another fragile man, William Morgan, 51, bedridden for 11 years, exposed an abdomen which was a mass of surgical scars. He is literally held together by a ramshackle brace which has broken down 15 times and should have been replaced long ago. It is also wearing a hole in his back.

Ricardo had to fend off prisoners trying to tell my associate their stories, but one with compelling eyes hissed: "Go in there." They entered a crowded ward just as the hospital's medical director, Dr. D.G. Limcangco, bustled out.

In a bed, his knee swollen with blood like an enormous beet, was David Rich, 24, a hemophiliac or "bleeder." For the past four days, he had lain in the hospital lobby suffering the hideous agony of the bleeder and calling for some doctor to ease his anguish. His medical record shows he threatened to stab himself in the knee to relieve the pressure from the internal bleeding.

BELATED RELIEF

Dr. Limcangco, learning that Whitten was heading in Rich's direction, had rushed up and ordered Demerol at last to kill his pain and to quiet his cries. The suffering Rich, an air -conditioning expert on the outside, was jailed for selling Demerol, the same addictive drug which alone gives him relief. Yet neither addiction nor hemophilia can be properly treated in this Dante's hell of a hospital, as its superintendent, Don Hassfurder, admitted.

In contrast with the hospital, the administration building is paneled, air -conditioned and richly furnished. The warden's suite rivals President Nixon's office. Hundreds of thousands of dollars, intended to improve the prison, have been spent upon the comforts of prison officials.

In fairness, these expenditures were made before Governor Claude Kirk came to power and began preaching prison reform. But there are still more mail censors, working in air -conditioned splendor, than there are psychologists at Raiford.

There is a shortage, too, of guards. At peak dining hours Hassfurder has to juggle guard details like a general who has run out of divisions.

Correctional officers make about $417 a month, tower guards only $385. Zoo keepers in Florida make $465. The need for guards is so critical that Hassfurder can't afford to give them psychiatric tests nor to worry whether they attended high school.

Who is to blame for conditions at Raiford? Hassfurder seems to be doing his best. Dr. James Bax, in Tallahassee, has fought for improvements. It's the taxpayers who are responsible.

Church Women United Support Clothing Depot With Dedication

By BARBARA LACY

I had heard of the Clothing Depot only since it was reopened Church Women United in the spring of 1969.

But that was because I was new in town. The Clothing Depot has been providing clothes for needy families for over 20 years. A generation of children has grown-up wearing the clothes other children provides.

Today the depot is at its 7th location, in the DAEOC headquarters in the Airport school complex.

Presently, over 200 families use the depot. Each family is allowed 2 garments for each member of his family, once a month.

The families usually return every month. Often, in the hope, that this time there will be some children's clothes there.

"Children clothes are our greatest need," Miss Jewel Allen, Sikeston City Welfare director said. "We desperately need them." Mrs. Allen has had complete charge of the depot several times now. She is delighted that it is run by Church Women United and their volunteers. She maintains an active interest in the depot.

The participating churches rotate monthly in staffing the depot with 2 volunteers to work from 1-5 p.m. each Tuesday.

Volunteers have always been important to the clothing depot.

First, all clothing is donated - it may be taken to the depot or to a sponsoring church. Only clean clothes in good condition need apply. All others will be turned down - as it is not a policy at the clothing depot to clean or repair clothes.

The depot was begun as a volunteer program in the early 1940's, by the Womens Civic Club. It was housed in a mobile room just east of the present telephone company.

Next, it was upstairs in the old city bilding for three years.

When the city welfare office became an agency of the United Fund in 1948, the Civic Club asked the city welfare director, Janice Edmunson, to assume responsibility of the room.

Thus, the clothing depot became the responsibility of Mrs. Jewel Allen when she became city welfare director in Nov. 1951.

When the city building was razed to make room for the present telephone office, the Welfare office moved to the second floor of the public works building.

But here there was no room for the clothes.

At this time Mrs. Allen asked Church Women United to sponsor the depot. they found a building (now razed) behind the present A & P store, to operate from.

It was here, Mrs. Rex Johnson, volunteer, related, that the first and only robbery took place.

When this building was razed, the clothes were moved back to the Board of Public Works building - under Mrs. Allen's care.

"In 1960, I moved to the little white building on Scott street, taking the clothing depot with me," Mrs. Allen added.

"In 1969, Mrs. Burt Rowe, who was president of Church Women United, and Mrs. Edwin Willis, walked in and asked what they could do to help.

"I suggested that they take over the Clothing Depot.

"It opened Easter 1969 here at Airport School. I was delighted for Church Women United to take over, because they can serve a much larger territory. I was restricted to people living within the city limits of Sikeston.

"We now serve people from as far away as Haywood City. Incidently, a women's club in Haywood City contributes to the United Fund each year - so indirectly they help support us.

"But we have the same problem we've always had - no children clothes.

"Actually, we only had enough childrens clothes once. That was after the Jaycee's collected clothes for the Mississippi hurricane victims.

"The Jaycees called me one day and said that they had a lot of children's clothes left over; we could have them if we picked them up."

"I'll never forget, Mrs. Shirley Burton and Mrs. Lillian Matthews loaded a pick up truck full of clothes the first day. The next day they went back with a truck - and luckily, there was some one to help them load that day.

"Now, people don't expect to find childrens clothes here," she said sadly, looking around the clothing depot.

Three walls have long racks of women clothes hanging from unpainted racks. A closet and half-a-dozen packing boxes are also full of clothes - all in adult sizes.

"I've seen as many as 23 families here in one afternoon. It's about equally divided — about half our customers are Negro, half are white.

Mrs. William Corrigon, president; Mrs. Lennie Whitworth, vice-president; Mrs. Wagner, secretary; Mrs. Margaret Cain, treasurer; Mrs. Edwin Willis, clothing depot chairman.

Churches participating in Church Women United include: St. Francis Xavier Catholic, Westley Methodist, First United Methodist, Hunter Memorial Presbyterian, First Christian, Tanner Church of God, First Church of Nazarene, Apostalic Penecostal, Smith Chapel Methodist and Church of God in Christ.

Ann Landers

Great-Grandmother Wants to Become Enlightened About Homosexuals

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widow, age 70 years, and I live in Orlando, Florida. I had ne ver heard the word homosexual until two or three years ago. Now that's all I hear. The movies are full of it. No matter what paper or magazine a person picks up it's homosexual this and homosexual that. Homosexuals have their own church out in California and their own clubs all over the world. I read that they had a big parade in New York City. They want the laws changed so they can marry each other and adopt children.

Is homosexuality a new trend or what? I want to educate myself but where do I start? I have four children, six grandchildren and three great -grandchildren -- but I can't go to them.

Last week I went to the public library and asked the librarian for a book on homosexuality and she nearly fainted. When I saw how flustered she became I said, "Skip it," and I walked out. Now I'm too ashamed to go back there.

Please tell me what to read, Ann, I want to educte myself. --- Dumb Dora

Dear Dora: Go to another library where the librarians don't faint so easily. Ask for a copy of "Sex and Gender" by Dr. Robert Stoller, Professor of Psychiatry at U.C.L.A. and get yourself educated.

Dear Ann Landers: Please say a word about friends who drop in just as you are sitting down to eat. They were "passing by" and thought dinner would be over. Then they go into that old song and dance, "I don't eat liver but I'll sample the vegetables and salad." Or, "Gee, that stew looks good. I always say a home -cooked stew is better than a sirloin in the most expensive restaurant." (Of course it is. It's free.) Another line: "I'm not going to eat until later but I can't resist those rolls and maybe a small bowl of the yummy looking soup."

I'd hate to tell you how many times a person who "wasn't going to eat till later" put away three pork chops, my husband's second helping of applesauce and MY dessert.

If you know of a solution to this problem I'd like to have it. My husband and I are sick to death of being used in this shameless manner. --The Odd Couple

Dear Couple: The only solution is a closed door, drawn shades and total deafness to the sound of the doorbell.

Dear Ann Landers: Last year my wife and I were divorced. I could have taken our three children but she promised she.d behave if I let her have them. It made sense that children belong with their mother. I live in a small place and I would have had to buy a large home and hire a housekeeper which I can't afford.

My wife has a trampy girl friend who leeches off her. Together they make the bars around town and Lord knows what else they do. Last Friday my oldest boy, age 8, called me at 7:30 to say his mother had not come home from work and there was no supper. He had given the four -year -old left -over soup and put her to bed. I went over and brought some hamburgers, milk, cole slaw and ice cream.

At 2:00 a.m. my wife and her girl friend rolled in. They were higher than a couple of kites and looked like something the cat had dragged in. My wife was mad because I was there. She insisted the kids could have managed without me.

Now I'm concerned that my children aren't being taken care of properly. What can I do? --- Boca Raton

Dear B.R.: You can see a lawyer. An unfit mother should not have custody of her children. A woman who would leave three kids under 8 years of age alone until 2:00 a.m. doesn't sound very fit to me.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope.

Mets, Cubs Battle For Second

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National League East battle—for the No. 2 spot—will be settled tonight when the New York Mets and Chicago Cubs meet while in Philadelphia the surprising Montreal Expos can avoid a basement finish with a victory as the regular season comes to a close.

Bill Hands stifled the Mets on seven hits Wednesday as the Cubs moved into a second place tie with their 2-0 triumph, setting up a confrontation between Chicago's 21-game winner Ferguson Jenkins facing Jim McAndrew, 10-13.

Second place is worth approximately $1,000 per man while the losing team will pick up about $300 apiece. The East champion Pirates have a fivegame lead as they get ready for Saturday's opening playoff game against the Cincinnati Reds.

The Expos exploded for four third inning runs to stop Philadelphia 5-4 and move one-half game ahead of the Phillies into fifth place.

Carl Morton, Montreal's rookie right-hander will be on the mound today trying to push the Phils into the cellar. The youngster hau taken 18 games this season and is a prime candidate for NL Rookie of the Year honors.

In other NL action, Houston edged San Francisco 4-3, St. Louis shaded Pittsburgh 4-3 and San Diego topped Los Angeles 2-1. Cincinnati and Atlanta were not scheduled.

In the American League, Baltimore topped Washington 6-2, New York nipped Boston 4-3, Detroit nudged Cleveland 4-3, Minnesota downed Kansas City 6-4, California trimmed Chicago 5-1 and Milwaukee beat Oakland 4-1.

The Cubs snapped a scoreless tie in the sixth inning as Mets' starter Nolan Ryan walked four Cubs for a run and Chicago added a tally in the seventh on Tommy Davis' run-scoring double.

The Expos trailed 3-1 in the third, when with two out, Jim Gosger drove in a run with a single, John Bateman followed with a two-run hit and Bobby Wine capped the inning by driving in Bateman with a triple.

In the West, Houston clinched fourth place, beating the Giants on John Edwards' run-scoring single with one out in the ninth off reliever Don McMahon. Larry Dierker, 16-12, was the Astros winner.

Juan Marichal went the first eight innings for San Francisco. Bobby Bonds ripped his 26th homer for the Giants.

Pat Dobson, 15-16, tossed a seven-hitter as the Padres ended a three-game losing string getting a run-scoring single from Chris Cannizzaro and a sacrifice fly by Ollie Brown.

Lou Brock's run-scoring single in the ninth after Jose Cardenal had powered a tying homer, gave the Cards their victory, snapping Pittsburgh's five-game winning streak.

The Pirates had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the inning on a run-producing single by John Jeter. Matty Alou stroked three Pirate hits, giving him 201 for the season.

Coach Warns Buffs of K-State Potential

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Are the Colorado Buffaloes "self-satisfied" by last week's victory over Penn State? Coach Eddie Crowder thinks so and said Wednesday the Buffs are in for a surprise in their Big Eight football opener at Kansas State.

"Kansas State is a very physical team and their poor showing to date is the result of an injury to quarterback Lynn Dickey," Crowder said.

Dickey is scheduled to play and K-State Coach Vince Gibson sums up the Wildcats position simply:

"We have to have our passing game. You can't play with two wide receivers like we do and expect to run the ball down people's throats."

The other conference opener finds Missouri at Oklahoma State and Tiger Coach Dan Devine feels his squad is better prepared because good weather this week has permitted outside practices.

"It's just a metter of being outside and catching up," the coach said after a two-hour workout in which the kicking game was emphasized.

Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney was uncertain what kind of shoes the Cornhuskers would wear Saturday when they play on the artificial turf at Minnesota.

"We're going to take about three kinds of shoes," he said, "because we don't know what kind we'll want to wear until we work out on it."

The question was asked Kansas Coach Pepper Rodgers if the KU stadium's artificial turf would hurt New Mexico Saturday. He would only say the Lobos would find it "different."

He said tight end Larry Brown may miss the game because of an injured leg. "If he plays, that's a bonus," Rodgers said.

Iowa State worked out in sweat clothes and shoulder pads after viewing films of this week's foe, Utah. The unbeaten Cyclones have a shot at a three-game winning streak for the first time since 1961.

"I am more interested in winning one ball game than any streaks," Coach Johnny Majors said.

Pitchers Tune-Up For Playoff Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dave McNally and Bert Blyleven breezed through a tune-up for the payoff pitch ... while Fritz Peterson threw a parting curve at the Green Monster.

Baltimore's soaring Orioles whipped Washington 6-2 Wednesday night as McNally tossed a four-hitter for his 24th victory of the season. It was the slick southpaw's final fling before his scheduled start against Minnesota in Sunday's second game of the American League pennant playoffs.

Blyleven, the Twins' 19-yearold fireballer, earned a starting assignment in the third game of the best-of-5 title series with a solid eight-inning effort in Minnesota's 6-4 victory over Kansas City.

Peterson became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career by hurling the New York Yankees past Boston 4-3 at Fenway Park, a graveyard for lefthanders because of its short left field wall—the Green Monster. It was the season finale for both clubs.

Elsewhere, California topped the Chicago White Sox 5-1; Milwaukee downed Oakland 4-1 and Detroit nipped Cleveland 4-3.

In National League play, St. Louis tripped Pittsburgh 4-3; the Chicago Cubs blanked the New York Mets 2-0; Montreal edged Philadelphia 5-4; San Diego topped Los Angeles 2-1 and Houston shaded San Francisco 4-3. Atlanta and Cincinnati were idle.

McNally, who had been bothered by elbow soreness in a previous start, went the distance without duress as the Orioles tied the club record with their 10th consecutive victory and extended Washington's losing streak to 13 games.

He struck out nine while moving alongside teammate Mike Cuellar and Minnesota's Jim Perry, the other 24-game winners in the majors. Merv Rettemund's two-run single and a two-run triple by Brooks Robinson broke the game open in the seventh inning.

Cuellar will face Perry in the Orioles-Twins opener Saturday, with McNally opposing Minnesota southpaw Tom Hall in the second game and 20-game winner Jim Palmer going for the Orioles against Blyleven Monday.

Blyleven, who has won 10 games in half a season with the Twins, limited Kansas City to five hits and one earned run, but trailed 4-1 when he left for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The Twins won it in the ninth with a four-run rally capped by pinch hitter Paul Ratliff's three-run homer.

"That job today made up my mind," Twins' Manager Bill Rigney said in announcing that Blyleven would get a shot at the Orioles.

Peterson, 20-11, defied the Fenway jinx for seven innings, gave up a two-run homer by rookie Luis Alvarado in the eighth and got ninth-inning help from reliever Lindy McDaniel. It was his first victory ever at Boston.

The Red Sox' Carl Yastrzemski, gunning for a fourth AL batting title, went 1-for-4 to finish his season with a .329 average. Runnerup Alex Johnson of California was 1-for-3 against the White Sox and remained at .327 with one game to play.

Elliott Maddox' run-scoring double in the eighth enabled the Tigers to withstand successive ninth-inning homers by Cleveland's Vada Pinson and Duke Sims.

SEMO's Unbeaten List Down to Three

East Prairie, Charleston and Caruthersville claim the distinction of being the only unbeatens as the prep grid season moves into its fourth week tomorrow night.

Caruthersville is the only one with any kind of blemish on its record as it played to a scoreless standoff with Hayti for a tie.

Delta C-7, Chaffee, Kennett and Sikeston will be looking for their first wins tomorrow night, as all but C-7 have lost their opening three. C-7 has dropped two games.

Kennett will take its 19 game losing streak to Paragould, Ark. tomorrow evening while Sikeston takes a four- game losing skid with it as it travels to Memphis, Tenn. to face White Station. Chaffee will host I-SC and C-7 will be at Gideon in hopes of snapping its losing sting.

Conference games highlight most of the action as Charleston takes its unbeaten record (3-0) to Perryville for a Northern Division battle while Poplar Bluff takes on Jackson in another Northern match.

Unbeaten East Prairie will take on Portageville, who exploded for 46 points last week.

Gideon can keep its slim Bootheel division title hopes alive tomorrow evening with a victory over winless Delta C-7 of Deering.

Cape Girardeau Central, who lost its first game of the season last week at St. Louis, is idle this week.

Bulldogs Faces Memphis' Third Rated Offensive Unit

Coach Bill Priday's injury riddled Bulldogs, take to the road tomorrow evening, after an unsuccessful home debut in which its losing streak reached three games with a 7-0 loss to arch- rival Charleston, to meet its newest addition to the schedule... White Station high of Memphis, Tenn.

Sikeston will try and fire up its offensive unit, which has produced only 19 points in three games, against a team that had produced 50 in three outings.

White Station, 1-2 overall and 1-0 in the Delta league, will feature junior quarterback Bobby Rowen who has rushed for 470 yards thus far this season, the 6- foot- 1 star is the son of former Mississippi state star Rip Rowen and brother of Mike Rowe, a reserve back for the University of Texas.

The Bulldogs haven't a standout star as no one has proven itself in the first three games of the season.

Due to the unusually large number of injuries, coach Priday was forced to go with seven juniors in the starting lineup last week and may have to add more.

Sikeston's offense has stalled with transfer Mike Berry calling the signals while its only big drives of the season came in the opening battle of the season with reserve Ken Barkett at the controls. Barkett is credited with engineering two TD's while Berry has only one to his credit in three games. Barkett has seen limited action.

White Station rates third in rushing in Memphis with a 244 yard average a game and is fifth in total offense with a 289.3 mark, showing it relies very little on its passing.

Injuries to the Sikeston team seems to have been centered on the guard position has coach Priday revealed this morning that he will be testing some sophomores at those key slots in tomorrow evenings game.

The game will be played at White Haven.

Two Ways To Get To Memphis Game

This marks the third year the church has sponsored a bus for Sikeston students to attend an out of town football game.

Joe Williams, Minister of Music and Education for the church, will accompany the group as well as the following Sikeston faculty members, Rosalie Snider, Carolyn Davis, Buddy Clayton, and Bob Depro.

For you fans who will make the trip to Memphis, Tenn. tomorrow for the Sikeston- White Station football game, here are some directions as obtained from Bill Sapp.

Take Interstate highway 55 through Memphis to Shelby drive, exit Shelby drive and take a right. Stay on Shelby until it dead ends into highway 51. Turn left on 51 and the White Haven field should be down four blocks on your right.

In 1899, the average factory worker received 15.1 cents an hour, and in 1970 he doesn't get much more than that, after taxes and house money and bills are deducted from his total take.

By 1980 you may well have a videophone. Think of all the fun there'll be, dial-

Employes who truly know more than the boss are perceptive enough to keep quiet about it.

Charleston Moves Up In State Ratings

Charleston high jumped to third in the 3A state football ratings as conducted by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association while Cape Girardeau Central tumbled to 10th in 4A and Malden fell to fifth in 2A.

Dexter and East Prairie failed to repeat among the top 10 this week. The Eagles are one of three undefeated teams remaining in the Southeast Missouri district.

A number of changes were observed in this week's ratings because last week was "upset" week around the state in prep football action.

Chillicothe, with a 22 game winning streak and impressive 40-6 victory over Kansas City central, remains the top team in the 3A class while South Shelby took over sole possession in 2A and Independence St. Mary's remained tops in A. St. Louis Riverview Gardens took over first in the 4A ratings, which took on an almost entirely new look.

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. — Junior tailback Brian Bream of San Leandro, Calif., tied an Air Force Academy football record in the 37-14 victory over Missouri on Sept. 26 when he carried the ball 26 times, equaling the mark first set by Terry Isaacson in 1961.

Ken Boyer Named To Card Staff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals filled one of two vacancies Wednesday on their 1971 coaching staff, naming 15-season major leaguer Ken Boyer as successor to hitting coach Dick Sisler, fired a day earlier.

Boyer, who began his major league career with the Cardinals, was traded to the New York Mets after the 1965 season and later played for the Chicago White Sox and Los Angeles Dodgers.

He retired after the 1969 season and rejoined the Cardinal system as manager of Arkansas in the Texas League guiding the team to a second-place finish.

A native of Liberty, Mo., he and his family now live in Hermann, Mo. Boyer, 39, played in 10 All-Star games as a Cardinal and was named the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1964.

A-State Retains No. 1 Ranking

Montana won and got four first place votes but finds itself in third place in The Associated Press Small College Football Poll, down a notch from the previous week.

Akron moved into second place behind No. 1 Arkansas State in the poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

Akron, No. 3 last week, got only two first-place votes but garnered 202 points, three more than Montana. Akron won 19-6 over Northern Michigan last Saturday, dropping Northern Michigan from a tie for 16th out of the rankings. Montana dropped Northern Arizona, previously No. 11, out of the rankings with a 20-0 victory.

Arkansas, 12-3 winner over Southeastern Louisiana, remained on top with five firstplace votes and 221 points.

Brock Collects 200th Base Hit

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lou Brock of St. Louis and Matty Alou of Pittsburgh both collected their 200th hit of the season in Wednesday night's Cardinals-Pirates game, won 4-3 by St. Louis.

Brock's 200th hit was a runscoring single in the fifth inning, following by his 201st, a game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth with two out. Alou's 200th hit was a single in the sixth inning.

Brock had an even 200 hits in the 1964 Cardinals pennant season, his first with St. Louis. And he had 206 in 1967, also a pennant year. Alou joined the 200-hit circle last season.

Nelson Briles, 6-7 who relieved starter Jerry Reuss after he pitched to three batters in the ninth, was credited with the victory.

Grant, the fourth Pirate pitcher, was charged with the loss. He is 2-1.

Reuss, who beat the Pirates 6-1 earlier in the season, walked only one batter until the ninth when he developed a wild streak.

"Then I started aiming the ball, and lost my poise a little," Reuss confessed.

"if he ever gets a little better control of his curve, he's going to make a heck of a pitcher - and I'm not sayin he's bad now," said Pirate coach Bill Verdon.

Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh continued to decline to discuss his pitching beyond Saturday's first division playoff game with Cincinnati. Dock Ellis, who has drawn that starting assignemtn, was used only as a pinch runner Wednesday night.

Steve Blass, 10-12, of the Pirates and Mike Torrez, 8-10, of the St. Louis were chosen to start in tonight's series and season-ending game in Busch Stadium.

Chiefs Fined $5,000

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A St. Louis sportscater says the Kansas City Chiefs have been fined $5,000 by the NationalFootball League for an incident that occurred during the exhibition game with the Cardinals in St. Louis Sept. 12.

Ed McCauley, sports director of KTVI-TV, said in his Wednesday night sportscast that a Chiefs player ejected from the game re-entered wearing a teammate's jersey St. Louis won the game 34-24.

Jack Steadman, general manager of the Chiefs, said when contacted in Kansas City that any comment would have to come from NFL headquarters in New York.

McCauley said a St Louis fan who did not wish to be identified reported the incident to NFL Commissioner PeteRozelle.

Rockey Rosema of the Cardinals and reserve Guard George Daney of the Chiefs were ejected.

McCauley said the fan reported seeing Daney remove his jersey, pul' on the jersey of Bobby Hughes of the Chiefs' taxi squad and go back into the game with the specialty squad several times.

The fan, McCauley said, got a note back from Rozelle along with a copy of a letter addressed to Steadman.

According to MaCauley, the letter said the fan's report had been confirmed and the Chiefs were being fined.

McCauley said the amount of the fine was not stated in the letter, but it was reported through another source to be $5,000.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Dyeing Synthetic Wig Is Not Recommended

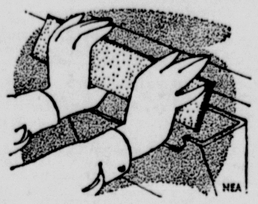

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mrs. J. D. B. that no dye of any kind will lighten her synthetic wig. I am a professional beauty operator who had a synthetic wig and found that nothing would penetrate the shafts of the synthetic hairs. There is a product available to beauticians that will lighten or darken human hair wigs. I am sorry to discourage Mrs. J. D. B. but I, personally, have tried for weeks to successfully change the color of a synthetic wig.—MARGARET

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. J. D. B.—I darkened a synthetic hair piece to match my auburn hair by using a commercial dye, such as used on clothes. I did not even rinse but blotted the wig dry. It shines like before the dye job. I think one could lighten a wig the same way by using the product that removes color before dyeing and then dye again if need be.—MRS. W. J. B.

DEAR GIRLS—The professionals I talked with say such dyeing cannot be done successfully. But Mrs. W. J. B.'s letter states that she did it.

One person I called said it could be TRIED by dyeing as one would a nylon garment but it is not recommended and should be done knowing it is a great risk and there is a chance of having a ruined wig. If one is of the venturesome type and has a wig that is of no use as it is, this could be tried, but remember it is a gamble. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY—The center of a two-piece angel food cake pan makes a good wig stand.—S. E. H.

DEAR POLLY—When the carpet was laid in a new church in our town, some of the men saved the leftover strips and glued them in the bottoms of the hymn book holders, thus preventing that ugly noise when the books are returned to these holders. —MRS. C. P.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Trouble with our coal furnace caused rusty water to drain on the basement floor. I tried using detergents to remove these stains but they do not rub out. Does anyone know how I could do this?—MRS. C. S.

Share your favorite homemaking ideas.. and send them to her in care of The Daily Sikeston Standard. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your idea in Polly's Pointers.

Owners of Building Appeal Cape Fine

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Owners of the condemned Idan-Ha Hotel building, Broadway and North Fountain, have filed with the city an appeal from the $100- per- day fine assessed by Building Supervisor Gerald H. Johnson at a hearing Sept. 11.

Johnson, who acts as judge in city condemnation proceedings, handed down the judgment after finding the owners, trustees of the Montgomery Trust of Sikeston, failed to comply with a previous city order to repair or demolish the burned- out structure within a specified time.

The hotel was destroyed by fire in June 1968 and has remained in a dilapidated condition since that time. The Montgomery Trust purchased the property after the fire.

As basis for the appeal, the owners claim the building supervisor erred in finding conditions existed as described by the buiding inspector, Harry C. Sachse, at a previous hearing and erred in finding the building was dangerous within the meaning of the city ordinance.

The appeal alleges provisions of this city ordinance are in violation of Missouri and United States Constitutions as it deprives the defendants of their property without due process of law and denies them equal protection of the law.

It claims the order of the building supervisor was not supported by competent evidence at the hearing and the finding is unjust, unconscionable, arbitrary and discriminates against the defendants. It contends the order should be vacated and reversed.

Legal notice of the dangerous condition of the site was first served on the present owners in March. Included were orders to repair or demolish the structure.

When the owners failed to take action within the set time, the city held a hearing April 30 at which time the owners were given 120 days to put the building into a state to meet standards of a city ordinance, again by repair or demolition. This time expired at the end of August and the Sept. 11 hearing was set.

Johnson, at the latter hearing, found the owners had not complied with the order and had not sought the 60- day extension available through posting of a performance bond.

The fine is to run for each day the owners fail to comply with the order to repair or demolish the structure.

Pilot Plan to Train Doctors In Six Years

KANSAS CITY (AP)—On their first day as college freshmen this fall, 13 men and two women selected as prospective medical students saw their first patients.

Before the school year is out, the 17- and 18-year-old students are expected to witness their first autopsy, be introduced to some details of X-ray examinations, and visit a pathology laboratory for scrutiny of a heart and liver.

The 15 are enrolled at the University of Missouri - Kansas City for a new study program designed to turn out medical doctors in six years instead of eight.

Medical students traditionally do not see patients until after they have been graduated from college and are in their third year of medical school. Some university medical schools have developed six-year programs, but students generally do not see patients until the third year.

Until the University of Missouri's new medical school begins functioning—building funds have been provided by state and federal appropriations and a bond election — the introductory medical course is offered as an elective, taught by two professors whose salaries are drawn from private gifts.

"This program has tremendous potential," said Dr. Nathaniel Winer, in charge of interns, residents and post-graduate education at Menorah Medical Center. "If the rest goest as well as the first week, this could set a pattern of medical education throughout the country."

"Introduction to Medicine," a 4 1/2-hour course, is designed to allow the students to examine patients on Mondays and discuss symptoms and diagnoses with their professors on Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

The students also will carry 12 hours of basic college courses for freshmen.

They will be involved in the medical program year round. Dividing their summer between courses such as anatomy, physiology and biochemistry and the practical training offered by such roles as X-ray and emergency room assistants and orderlies.

The plan provides for those completing the two years satisfactorily to enter the first year medical school program and eventually graduate with a combined A.B.-M.D. degree four years later.

Farm Land For Rent Hard to Find

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was a time in the days of horse drawn plows when a farmer stood a chance of renting some extra land from his neighbor, perhaps to grow an extra 20 acres of corn or another patch of cotton.

Now, the experts say, active farm operators not only use every acre they own or rent but continually scour around for more to lease. Virtually no farmer rents out his back forty to a neighbor.

A report issued Friday by the Economic Research Service provides some dated but still valid figures on where farmers look for extra land and how they arrange to pay for it.

"With the increasing pressures to expand farm operations," the report said, "farmers tend to operate all the land they own and tend not to rent land to other farmers."

In 1964—the latest year for complete figures—89 per cent of all rented farm land was leased from landlords who did not farm themselves. This compared with 81 per cent in 1949.

Perhaps the most significant change in the last few decades has been a drift away from the historic practice of renting land as a stepping stone to full ownership.

At one time it was common for a young farmer to rent land with the objective of saving his money and buying out the landlord some day.

Recently, however, the report said, the practice has been for a farmer to buy some land, use it as a base of operations and then rent additional acreage to meet his production goals.

Part of the reason for the "part-ownership" trend is that land costs have risen so much over the past 30 years that if a farmer could afford to buy an extra half section outright he might not have enough left to buy the additional machinery to operate it.

The 1964 study showed 392 million acres of farm land—about 36 per cent of the national total—were rented, compared with 33 per cent in 1949. In the late 1930s, the report noted, about 44 per cent of all farm land was rented.

Man Dies After 77 Glasses of Beer

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — A man trying to set a world beer drinking record has died after downing 77 glasses.

Jack Manakau, 33, aimed at setting the record on Saturday but collapsed and later was found dead in his car.

Employe Fringe Benefits Up Sharply in 20 Years

NEW YORK — If anything is more likely to rise than taxes it appears to be payroll fringe benefits, as they are called. Experience in the past 20 years shows that taxes don't always rise annually. But the record shows benefits do.

In fact, so large a portion of payrolls consists of indirect payments that the word "fringe" has become a misnomer and the word "benefit" is beginning to sound as dated as corporate paternalism.

The latest survey of the situation by the National Chamber of Commerce shows that benefits now average 27.9 per cent of employer payrolls. which is to say that more than a quarter of your income may not show up in your paycheck.

The sharp contrasts from one company to another in the amount of such compensations make salary comparisons almost meaningless these days, and often disguise tremendous advantages and disadvantages in certain companies.

Many couples who wonder why their neighbor seems to do so much better on the same salary, for example, may find the answer lies in a free company car, pension, life and health insurance, profit-sharing, bonuses, product discounts, free eduation and so on.

The Chamber survey, which is made once every two years and involves more than 1,000 companies, shows such payments through 1969 were up 330 per cent in 20 years, and 19 per cent since the previous survey year of 1967.

In 1949, the companies involved reported they paid $477 in benefits per worker. In 1969, this figure had risen to $2,052 for each employe.

The biggest increase, as might be expected, was in Social Security contributions which, being legislated, have little to do directly with corporate generosity. In 1949, the tab to companies was $27 a worker; in 1969, the figure was $335, a 1,141 per cent rise.

Unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation, also legislated, were up substantially, but some of the biggest increases were in pensions,insurance, vacations and other voluntary arrangements.

Some of the increases may be attributed to the long and strong economic surge of the 1960s that forced companies to compete more imaginatively for skilled workers, but that tells only part of the story.

Collective bargaining has a great deal to do with the rise. So has the growing recognition of workers that, as a social unit, their company can supply many services, such as insurance, that could not be afforded separately.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

Generally speaking, the teacher shortage, which has been vary critical over the past several years, is easing up. Except that is, there is still a need for teachers and educational personnel in certain subject matter fields or areas.

There is a shortage in: vocational- technical; early childhood education; education for the mentally and physically handicapped and teachers who are adequately prepared to work with children in urban and rural poverty area schools, are in short supply. It is said that these latter teachers are too often "emotionally unprepared and academically untrained to work effectively with youngsters in these communities."

The U.S. Office of Education has made some money available to train for local school positions, persons from the community who are not currently involved in education but who seem to have the potential to become good teachers for these disadvantaged children.

In this school system, we seem to have the most difficulty in finding qualified teachers to fill positions in special education, that is working with children who are handicapped in certain areas; speech; counselors and possibly science-mathematics.

Our biggest problem in attracting teachers in any field is, of course, the fact that in common with many Southeast Missouri schools, we simply do not have enough salary money to compete with those school districts who are financially better off.

Classes will be dismissed Friday, October 2, in order that teachers may engage in an In-Service Workshop, planned to improve instruction and other educational services.

At the elementary level, according to Bob Miller, director of that program, workshop activities are centered on: basic subject areas; instruction geared to meet needs; encouraging creativity; penmanship and progress reporting procedures. Resource persons, other than the faculty, who will assist are: Earl Boucher, Leland Smith and T. M. Travelstead. These men represent various textbook companies and are specialists in subject matter areas.

At the Middle School and secondary level, Ernest Elledge, Middle School Principal and Senior High Principal, Roger Sherman, have, with faculty members, planned discussion sessions to include classroom management, student control and involvement and student-teacher communications as well as discussions devoted to subject matter or other special problems. Dr. Greg Dickey, Professor of Education and Psychology at Southeast Missouri State College, will speak to the group during the workshop.

Two other one- day in-service training workshops are scheduled on the school calendar. The exact dates will be announced as plans for these meetings are completed. The workshops are outside the regular 180- day schedule when students are in attendance during the term.

To add to our financial woes, we and a lot of other schools are running into insurance problems. possibly because of vandalism, student unrest, riots and similar troubles that have reportedly caused insurance losses, insurance rates have been drastically increased, coverages reduced and in a few instances, some policies cancelled all together. While our insurance record has been extremely good, we are still affected by the general increase in rates and coverages resulting from higher losses.

We have been informed by our insurors that we must now reschedule our insurance with a $15,000 deductible clause on all items except at the Field House and Middle School which must have a $25,000 deduction, if we are to maintain our insurance program within the limits of our reduced budget. There will, in fact, be some reduction of premium with these coverages, but we would point out that most of our losses are within the $100- 200- 300 range. Only the possibility of a major loss to buildings and facilities would seem to justify any insurance coverage at all, but with this possibility the Board has little choice but to maintain a program which will at least protect the district to that extent.

The Board has appointed an insurance committee made up of representatives of local agencies which we feel do an excellent job in trying to recommend the best insurance progrm that we can afford.

It is an interesting fact that educational research indicates that boys score higher than girls on national aptitude tests but they get lower grades from teachers. The reason for this has not been definitely established, although one researcher concludes that "there is an apparent bias in favor of the girls" by the teachers. We don't care to comment on that one.

The idealism of our youth is pretty well indicated by the following. In a nationwide survey made by Purdue University, 91% of high school students who were polled, said that they would be willing to defer their personal interest for a year, giving this year to the nation if they were asked to do so in order to help some of the nation's problems. Proverty and pollution headed the list of the problems which they thought were uppermost.

The increased enrollment and budget squeeze has caused at least one St. Louis County suburban school to go to a 12-month schedule.

Over a five- year- period, the Francis Howell school district will put elementary and junior high school students on a year-round schedule over a five- year period. They will attend classes for nine weeks, followed by three weeks of vacation on a rotating schedule. High school students will follow a conventional schedule of nine months school.

The results of this change will be interesting. We suspect that if parents are willing to consider the change on its merits, that the teachers and students will make it work, likely with more effective use of the school tax dollar.

Battle Arises Over School Clothing Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is locked in battle with an organization of welfare mothers over a new regulation limiting federal education aid to clothe poor children.

The militant National Welfare Rights Organization — NWRO — has appealed directly to Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson for more clothing aid. He promised to answer early next week.

At issue is a Sept. 15 Office of Education directive freezing at a last year's level — three-tenths of one per cent of the total — clothing allowances from the $1.5 billion elementary school aid fund.

Most of the 16,500 school districts receiving aid for disadvantaged school children do not use any of the so-called Title I money for clothing programs. The new order, in effect, prohibits them from starting.

The freeze comes at a time when local NWRO chapters are pressing Title I districts without clothing provisions to include them.

Terrel H. Bell, acting commissioner of education took note of the new clothing demands in the Sept. 15 order, saying, "In a number of states project applications are being received involving greatly increased expenditure of Title I funds for clothing, which if approved, would jeopardize the basic nature of the Title I program. Title I is an education, not a welfare program."

George A. Wiley, NWRO executive director argues, however, "that adequate school clothing is an educational need of the highest priority."

"Children cannot learn if they are not in school," he said. "Without adequate shoes and clothing, many poor kids will not go to school. Other children in ragged clothing will be defeated by the self-image that is radiated in the faces of their more affluent classmates."

Richardson said in an interview he intends to allow districts without clothing programs to begin.

SHRIMP BOATS may be on the way out. Oldtimer examines lightweight metal traps which promise to replace expensive trawlers and nets for catching shrimp. Traps are light enough for small boats and can be lowered into the ocean by one man. Key to design is aluminized steel fabric that resists rust and corrosion in salt water. Unique material, made by Armco, also is used for animal cages and coops.

Gals Like Mix-Match Canisters

Chicago (NFS) — Canisters aren't for everybody! At least, that's how some homemakers feel about those traditional kitchen container sets wherein each size is boldly labeled to indicate its contents.

"Many women prefer the 'blind' canisters that don't dictate what you must put into them," reports Mrs. Pauline Church, home service advisor for a leading housewares manufacturer.

"But even these leave something wanting when their capacities don't coincide with your particular storage needs," she added.

SO NOW there's a better idea: Colorful plastic containers in five different sizes that can be mixed, matched, or mated on an "open stock" basis.

Call Apolloware and made by the Republic Molding Corporation, Chicago, these new round containers have trim white lids that lock with a twist to provide airtight storage for anything from baking supplies to snack crackers.

Dishwasher-safe and designed to stack neatly, Apolloware containers are available in the following sizes: 17-oz. at 49 cents, 30-oz. for 59 cents, 48-oz. for 89 cents, 72-oz. for $1.19, and 105-oz. for $1.39. All are to be found in housewares, hardware, and department stores.

World Food Output Ends Gain Streak

ROME AP) — For the first time in 12 years, there was no increase in the combined output of the world's farms and fisheries in 1969 while population continued to soar.

This standstill in over-all food production was due largely to reduced output in the developed countries "where surpluses rather than shortages are the problem," the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization—FAO reported Thursday.

In terms of food per person, this meant less to eat in almost all of the underdeveloped regions of the world, where population is shooting up by 2.7 per cent a year.

FAO's annual survey of the state of food and agriculture compared virtual stagnation of over-all world food production in 1969 to an increase of 4 per cent in 1968 and a 10-year average increase of almost 3 per cent.

Agriculture proper showed a very small gain in production last year, but fisheries output fell 3 per cent, FAO reported.

It was the first time since 1950 that world fish production suffered a setback. Output was down only 1 per cent in the developed countrues but dropped by 5 per cent in under developed countries where it was needed most.

FAO reported that the situation was brightest in the Far East where the food problem in the past has been most serious.

A 4 per cent increase in food production among the underdeveloped nations there was still 7 per cent below the 1968 gain, but exceeded the 10 year rate of 2.6 per cent.

Those figures exclude Communist China, on which no statistics were available, and Japan, which is considered a developed nation.

India, whose teeming population often faces severe hunger, again had a solid 5 per cent increase in food production, FAO said.

In Latin America a slight over-all increase of 1 per cent in food production, after another season of severe drought, again fell far behind the region's 2.9 per cent population increas.

Food production in the Middle East showed no increase. In Africa, excluding South Africa, production even fell by about 1 per cent.

Nixon Orders Draft Pool Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon ordered Wednesday a three-month extension of the draft liability of men who enter the 1970 draft pool with lottery numbers already reached by their local boards.

The Selective Service System, announcing Nixon's executive order, said it would affect only "relatively small numbers of registrants."

Men with numbers not called during 1970—boards throughout the nation have been limited to numbers no higher than 195 so far—will, as previously planned, move into a lower priority in 1971. Today's order does not affect them.

It does, however, affect any man who loses a deferment or exemption and becomes 1-A during 1970, after his local board has called lottery numbers as high as the one he holds.

Many boards have already gone back to calling lower numbers as former students and others with low numbers became available.

Without Nixon's order, a man entering the pool late, with a number between the highest one previously reached and the ones currently being called, might have escaped the draft this year.

That would have foiled one of the main aims of the lottery system instituted last December— to call men by the numbers, insuring fairness to all.

Nixon now has ordered that such men will be given top priority for draft calls during the first three months of 1971.

If any remain undrafted by that time, they will join their 1970 colleagues in the secondpriority pool, leaving first priority to the new "prime" group which was assigned lottery numbers last July 1.

But draft spokesmen sayd they do not expect to have enough "in-between" men to fill three months of draft calls, much less have any left over.

They were unable to estimate how many would be affected.

Four Injured

Three were injured in a two-car collision Wednesday at 6:20 p.m. on highway 153, one mile south of Hunterville, when a northbound 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Finley Kuykendall, 69, Essex, attempted a left turn in front of a 1970 Chrysler, driven by Wanda Craig, 16, Essex, the state patrol reported.

The two vehicles struck almost headon.

Kuykendall received a head injury and cuts on his face. A passenger in his car, Willie Tyler, Essex, received injury to a leg, shoulder and head.

Kuykendall and Tyler were taken to Dexter Memorial hospital.

Wednesday at 2:15 p.m. at the intersection of highways 60 and 61, at the south city limits of Sikeston, James Plunk, 40, Morehouse, driver of a 1963 Chevrolet, was injured.

A 1963 southbound Chevrolet tractor trailer, driven by B. K. Surface, 43, Bertrand, made a left turn on highway 60 into the path of the Plunk car, the patrol said.

Hearing Will Be Set For Noranda Suit

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A date for a hearing into a petition asking for damages in the amount of $450,000 plus $30,000 per day from the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and its Local 618 at Sikeston will be set by U.S. District Judge James H. Meredith when Federal court convenes Friday.

The suit has been filed by a St. Louis attorney for Noranda Aluminum Co., Inc., which is engaged in the construction of a multimillion dollar aluminum reduction plant and rod and wire mill in New Madrid's St. Jude Industrial Park.

The company alleges that the union and its local have, since mid- summer, engaged in "planned programs of walking off, remaining away from, striking and picketing work" at the construction site.

The Rader and Grimm law firm of Cape Girardeau represents the defendants in the suit, filed Aug. 12, in the Eastern District of U.S. Court. It is filed as a violation of the Labor Management Relations Act of 1947.

Specifically, the suit says the plaintiff (Noranda) and the City of New Madrid, have suffered injuries to their business "in an amount exceedig $30,000 per day and will continue to suffer such injury for each and every day the said unlawful and wrongful acts of the defendants continue."

The company alleges that "the defendants, carpenters, by their officers, agents and representatives, commencing on or about July 30, 1970, and at all times thereafter" assigned the work of installing rock and pinion gates and dry material handling chutes "to employes represented by defendants rather than to employes working as members of another labor organization..." and "... engaged, induced and encouraged individuals employed as millwrights to engage in a strike..."

It further states that union members refused to "use, transport, or otherwise handle or work" on any goods or materials, "or to perform any services, and have threatened, coerced and restrained plaintiff, its officers, agents and representatives."

Noranda claims the strikes have taken place since about July 30 of this year, causing "total disruption of the construction completion schedule projected and planned."

The suit is asking for the $30,000 per day in damages for each day of walk-offs or striking since Aug. 13, the day after the suit was filed.

Kaiser Engineers is building the plant on 4,200 acres situated in New Madrid's newly-developed industrial park. Company officials have hoped for a completion date the early part of November.

J. D. Morris is business agent for Local 618 at Sikeston.

GAMAL ABDEL NASSER

Cape Girardeau County Route F Project Approved

The Missouri state highway commission approved the recommended location and preliminary design details for route F, Cape Girardeau county. The improvements begins at the present terminus of route F, north of Tilsit, and proceeds along or near the present county road north and east for approximately 4.3 miles, intersecting Route PP approximately 1.0 mile south of Route 34.

The commission determined the recommended location and preliminary design details would best serve the interests of the public after considering the favorable and adverse economic, social, and environmental effects of the location and design.

W. H. Shaw, district engineer for the Department, indicated finalized design would now proceed, followed by acquisition of right-of-way with construction to follow, subject to availability of funds.

He pointed out that the proposed improvement to Route F is a "take over" road and the necessary right-of-way is to be guaranteed by the Cape Girardeau county court.

Big Surplus of Unwanted Pets Reported in U.S.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The United States is faced with a tremendous surplus of unwanted dogs and cats, the American Humane Association was told Sunday.

Thomas C. Justice, association president, announced at the start of the 94th annual meeting that a non-surgical method of pet population control will be the goal of a study to be supported by the association.

Justice said the association will make a substantial grant, through the Morris Animal Foudation, to Colorado State University to advance studies for control of reporduction of dogs.

Justice said the need for finding an alternative to surgical control of animal population was due to expense and opwner opposition.

Ky's Absence Restrains 'March for Victory'

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — A "March for Victory" (in Viet Nam) rally, organized by the Rev. Carl McIntire, will be held in Washington Saturday.

Inside the Rev. Mr. McIntire resides the spirit of a public relations genius. It was he who organized the first "March for Victory" in Washington last April 4, with Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia as principal speaker. And it was McIntire's idea to organize a second march on Oct. 3, with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Cao Ky as the featured attraction.

Ky's no doubt reluctant decision "to postpone" his trip to the United States distressed McIntire and delighted federal officials. "We are witnessing a monstrous conspiracy reaching up to the very top levels of government and involving one of our biggest television networks," McIntire said on being informed of Ky's Sept. 27 announcement on CBS- TV's "Face the Nation." There was a danger of a confrontation between pro- war and antiwar forces if Ky had appeared as scheduled. But the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression has canceled plans to mount a counter- demonstration. "We wouldn't dignify McIntire's thing by protesting it," said William Douthard, a coalition spokesman.

All the will- he- or- won't- he stories about Ky's involvement in the rally gave McIntire the kind of publicity that money can't buy. On the other hand, David Braaten of the Washington Evening Star suggested, tongue in cheek, that the invitation to Ky represented a confession of weakness on the part of ultra-conservatives. "It is humiliating indeed," he wrote, "when a great nation has to concede before the world that its homegrown fanatics are not of high enough quality to assure a respectable turnout of superpatriots at a pro- war rally."

McIntire has an uncanny facility for dramatizing himself and the various right- wig causes he espouses. Last year, for example, he stood on the steps of Riverside Church in New York City to read a manifesto demanding $3 billion in "reparations" from the established churches he claimed were destroying Christianity. Several months earlier, National Black Economic Development Conference Director James Forman had mounted the pulpit of the same church to demand that white churches pay reparations to Negroes.

McIntire, 64, was similarly inspired by the 1969 U.S. tour of Bernadette Devlin, spokesman for Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland. Shortly after Miss Devlin returned home, McIntire persuaded the Rev. Ian Paisley, leader of Ulster's militantly conservative Protestants, to visit this country.

The McIntire message of political and religious fundamentalism is broadcast five days a week by the 600- odd radio stations that carry his Twentieth Century Reformation Hour. However, the Federal Communications Commission has denied renewal of the licenses of WXUR AND WXUR FM, Media, Pa., which are owned by an organization of which McIntire is board chairman. The stations' programing has been criticized as "anti- Negro, anti- Semitic, and anti- Catholic."

The April march for victory attracted many more participants than had been expected-- between 10,000 and 50,000, according to estimates. McIntire contends the crowd numbered 100,000. His prediction of a 500,000 turnout on Oct. 3 may have to be scaled down now that Ky has bowed out.

The smaller the turnout the better, reasons the District of Columbia government. Demonstrations cost money, and the city has none to spare. It is still waiting to be paid in full for the security and clean-up services it provided on Honor America Day last July 4.

There are approximately 18,000 species of marine and freshwater algae, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Corner on Questions

QUESTION: DO THE REVOLUTIONARY YOUNGSTERS HAVE A POINT? ANSWER: A friends daughter, married to a "hippy" member of a college art faculty, compelled a 120 mile trip. The Bible teaches: "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should bring forth fruit."

Clad in rebellious garments, the daughter "demon"- strated revolutionary character dedicated to deeds of destruction. Aside from grotesque art, the walls were ornamented with a deflated balloon scotch-taped between the paintings, and an imposing amateurish photograph of King Kong freely ravaging humanity. Cat filfth and unkempt housekeeping minimized the rags called furniture. Little time was required to discern that this well-paid couple was using poverty to argue against the "establishement." Perhaps ignorantly, but this couple engaged their resources for the destruction of the U.S. Communism. Beware of the immaturity which describes good guys as bad and themselves as good. God says: "The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it?"

While testifying of Christ who said: "I am the way, the truth, and the life; no man cometh unto the Father but by Me," she defensively interrupted by correcting the conversation to parallel the warped ideology of "women's liberation." Apparently, she bolstered her inferiorities by obnoxious control of one who wished to help. This impolite, unteachable, egotistical youngster rejected Jesus Christ being unwilling to subject herself to her husband; she willfully chose Hell rather than to become a second class citizen as she said. Doubtless, this girl would consider her "hippy" husband more Christlike than Christ who said to the first woman: "Thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee."

No matter whose daughter it is, God says: "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under Heaven given among men, whereby we MUST be saved." Choose Christ now!

The patented color picture tube development was first offered in the 23- inch (diagonal) screen size in the company's 1970 line. The Chromacolor development is now offered in 25- inch and 19- inch (Diagonal) screen sizes.

How It Was Named

Consumer Arm In Government Goes Forward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation designed to give the nation's consumers influence inside the federal government has been approved by a Senate panel.

In its final form, the measure was short of what some consumers groups had wanted, but it is still likely to provoke a fight on the Senate floor.

The compromise bill approved Monday by the Senate Government Operations Committee would create a White House Council of Consumer Advisors as a policy-making body for a new and independent consumer protection agency.

"For the first time in the history of the country, the consumer will have both a voice and an advocate in the government," said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff D-Conn., chairman of the Government Operations subcommittee which wrote the bill.

Ribicoff said the government advocacy would likely prod regulatory agencies, such as the Federal Trade Commission, into actions to protect consumers which, he said, they have been reluctant to undertake in the past.

Ribicoff said that a bill allowing individual consumers to sue in federal court was hopelessly bottled in the Senate's Judiciary Committee making the work for a new fraud division moot at this time.

A committee amendment by Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., would require the new consumer agency to protect industrial trade secrets and another sponsored by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., would forbid it from making any disclosures or statements rating one product as better than another.

But Ribicoff said the consumer agency, if written into law, will for the first time give the individual citizen the power that he charged influential industrial and commercial groups have often usurped before regulatory agencies.

New Procedure May Cut Plea Bargaining Abuses

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Judicial authorities have deep reservations about plea bargaining, but it has become a daily ritual in overcrowded criminal courts across the nation. Lawyers and prosecutors regularly hammer out "deals" in which the defendant is offered a reduced charge if he agrees to plead quilty. Thus, a man charged with armed robbery might plead quilty to unarmed robbery or attempted robbery and draw a sentence of a few months instead of 20 years. The right to trial by jury is waived.

The negotiations are extra-legal, sometimes conducted in frenetic whispers in the courtroom and sometimes through the bars of a jail. In Washington, D. C., the General Sessions Board of Judges recently approved an experiment in which the negotiations would be conducted openly, before a judge. The new procedure will begin on Thursday and continue for four months. If it proves successful in the Court of General Sessions it may be retained and extended to felony cases at U.S. District Court.

Pleas bargaining is symptomatic of a deeper malaise in federal and state courts. The judicial system is overwhelmed with work. When court dockets become burdened with too many cases, prosecutors come under enormous pressure to dispose of them as quickly as possible. Deals with the defendant are an easy way to speed up the court's business but they raise the question of whether justice is being sacrificed to expediency. Leonard Downie, Jr., wrote in the Washington Monthly "Everyone in the system, including the judge and the defendant's own layer, offers inducement or exerts pressure for a guilty plea to save the time and trouble of a trial."

New procedures, like those being instituted in Washington, may help to remove the abuses of plea bargaining. But it is widely argued that it is too late for ad hoc improvements. What's necessary, many authorities insist, is a thorough, fundamental reform of the entire judicial system.

NEW YORK (AP) — Proper treatment of thyroid deficiency, or hypothyroidism, can prevent premature heart attacks in people suffering from a lack of thyroid hormones. It can also increase the life span of past victims of coronary disease, a report to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology has revealed.

The scientific study of 725 men and 844 women with hypothyroidism showed that only four new cases of heart disease developed instead of the expected 72.

Chrysler Sets Smallest Hike In Car Prices

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has announced average price hikes for its 1971 model cars of $104 or 3.7 per cent, giving it the lowest increase among the industry's Big Three.

The nation's No. 3 automaker said Tuesday its suggested manufacturer's retail prices would have gone up an average of $147 or 4.5 per cent if it had not slashed dealer profit margins on some models.

Chrysler joined General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. in leaving open the possibility of further price hikes for 1971 cars.

The automaker said increasing material and labor costs "could cause price revisions of all its 1971 cars."

The United Auto Workers union is striking GM over a new labor contract. When one is agreed to, the UAW plans to take it to other automakers for matching.

The 16th amendment, which went into effect in 1913, gave Congress the authority to levy an income tax.

Under Twenty

Helena Kallianiotes

By KURT LASSEN

Talk about the generation gap! Helena Kallianiotes is an expert on the subject. The actress, who is attracting wide attention in her debut performance in "Five Easy Pieces," has a story that sounds like a movie script.

"When I graduated high school my father wanted to take me back to our native village in Greece where he had a husband all picked out for me. I had come to America when I was ten and my ideas on life were different. I didn't want to marry a boy I had never even seen, so just before we sailed I jumped ship and went on my own."

Helena did the only thing she really felt she could do. She became a dancer leaning on her experience in the native Greek dances. "I did the native dances in costume, mostly at Greek clubs around Boston and then I went to California," she told us.

Helena, having lived with a difficult name all of her life didn't come off much better in her film name. She plays opposite Jack Nicholson with the unlikely name of Palm Apodaca. As a girl who hitches a ride with Nicholson and Karen Black she plays the part of a compulsive talker on the subject of pollution, filth and dirt and is on her way to Alaska where she has heard everything is beautiful and clean.

Because she could dance skating came easy to her. "Only," she said almost apologetically, "it was roller skating. I raced on skates and did both single and double figure skating. Roller skating," she explained, "doesn't have the class that figure skating on ice does, but it, too, helped me make a living."

When she went to California she again turned to dancing for a living. "I also decided I'd try to learn something about acting. I went to classes once a week for a whole year and then did some small things in stock companies, but my looks seemed to be against me in getting anywhere with it."

Helena's looks are dark, Greek and intense. There's a sadness about her eyes and, as she pointed out, any future in acting would require a very special part. "I'm not the glamour girl type."

Bob Rafelson, who directed the picture, picked Helena for the part. He gets credit for pushing Jack Nicholson for

Helena Kallianiotes

"Easy Rider" and saw and talked to Helena three times before casting her for the part.

"Now that the film has been seen at some film festivals and screenings and is in release, lots of things are happening for me," Helena said. "I've been sent any number of scripts and producers and directors are calling me to talk about parts in other films.

"I never thought one part could cause so much action," she said. "As a matter of fact when they shot it I thought it would be one very small bit and that most of it would end up on the cutting room floor. When I finally saw the film I was surprised at how much they had left in.

"Lots of people have asked if the lines were improvised. They weren't. I spent a lot of time with them and I used them exactly as they were written. I was lucky to get a part that attracts so much attention for my first role."

Lucky or not there is little doubt that Helena Kallioniotes is a girl people are going to be seeing in films. Her name may sound like an unlikely one for a star, but her performance leaves no doubt that she has the acting ability to reach movie stardom.

She hasn't seen her father since that day she jumped ship. "We were just from different worlds," she said wistfully. "Our family life as children was very hard. I worked all the time after school to get together the money for a trip I didn't want to take."

Now Helena will be able to choose the time and place for herself.

If You Were the Judge

Confession Induced By Gun Extortion

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Al and Ruby were fast friends, but Ruby was a little faster than even Al thought he was. Coming home late one night, Al spotted Ruby pussy- footing out of his wife's boudoir and, grabbing a pistola from a nearby drawer, he ordered his erstwhile crony back into the bedroom. There, Al demanded that Ruby sign a confession that he had been romancing his wife. With the gun pointing straight at his perspiring forehead, Ruby signed the confession with alacrity. The next day, however, he had Al arrested and charged with extortion.

"He made me sign that confession against my will," complained Ruby in court. "If I hadn't signed it, he would have blasted me."

"The guy's got more nerve than brains," was Al's answer. "Here the guy's been having an affair with my wife and he has me arrested like I was the bad guy. I'm not guilty of extortion, I'm guilty of having no brains. I should have shot him when I had the chance."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Al of extortion?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that like any other red -blooded man, he could not acquiesce in a man taking advantage of another man's wife. But, he added, compelling a person to do an act against his willby force constitutes the crime charged. Thus, Al was guilty of extortion.

Dali Collector Wants To Open Museum

By Betty Dietz Krebs
Dayton Daily News
Written for the Associated Press

The 55-year-old outspoken Morse had it in mind to build a museum to house his collection, but then Congress passed Tax Reform Act 91172, which prevents such a museum being opened as a public foundation by a private collector.

"I'd end up in jail with a $10,000 fine for being a self-dealing foundation manager," he says.

If Morse sounds angry, it's because he is.

"The law's a kiss of death for private philanthropy — all because of some hankypanky on the part of the big foundations. That law's a fantastic indictment of how to kill the goose that laid the golden egg," he said in a recent interview.

The answer, as he sees it, is to open a Dali museum as a division of his IMS Co., which manufactures machinery. Hopefully, the museum will open early in 1971.

Morse says that in an era "when everybody else is producing junk," Dali hangs on to his artistic integrity. He admires the Spanish artist's "probity of esthetic ideals" and characterizes his style as "paranoic classical."

Dali never has been to Cleveland to visit the Morses, probably the country's leading collectors of his work.

"Frankly I don't want him to come," Morse said. "Every nut in the country would be here."

The Clevelander and his wife — who has translated some of Dali's writings — stay clear of the "Dali court" of admirers.

Morse first met the artist in 1943, in the bar of a New York hotel. Today he owns 87 Dali paintings, some 400 graphics and about 150 drawings. That represents about 10 per cent of the artist's total output.

The largest painting — a 13-foot oil titled "Hallucinogenic Toreador," and reportedly valued at about $300,000 — is still unfinished. But preparations are current for its completion.

An experienced collector, Morse has an advantage over a novice entering the art market. But he has had to watch his step.

"I've had four fakes," said Morse. He felt uneasy about them.

"So I stuck them under Dali's nose. He was sick in bed with a bad knee.

"I told him to put his glasses on and take a good look. The paintings were signed and they looked pretty authentic."

The artist studied the paintings carefully.

"I almost wish I could say I did," he sighed about one of them, a kitchen scene. "But that vase never was in my mother's kitchen."

Only 28 museums in the world own a work by Dali, according to Morse. He attributes this situation to a variety of things.

"Museums look on the private collector as a damn nuisance. They're suspicious of all collectors and, in the case of Dali, they simply can't get any," Morse asserted.

Another factor, the collector feels, is that surrealist Dali is "painting independently of all vogues. They look with suspicion on any man who paints in the classical style."

The would-be collector today, Morse contends, would be wise to stick to graphics. Examples of graphics by Dali are priced around $300 to $500. Everything else, he maintains, is "outrageously priced — by Vlaminck, some Dufys, even Miro. And I'm absolutely convinced most of them are fakes," he adds.

But Morse, who like his wife has written books on Dali and is writing two more at the moment, feels there is a definite gray area in the whole field of graphics.

His theory: If the artist draws it on paper or paints it on canvas, or does his own plates and prints, it is original art. But if the prints are produced by someone else, they are not for Morse.

Fourth TV Network Opens Monday

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — The Public Broadcase System, no longer burdened by the name National Educational Television, opens its new season Monday, with fond hopes of living up to its billing as the "fourth network." By whatever name it is known, non-commercial television seeks to offer the viewer a difference this fall.

Nothing exemplifies the difference quite like "Civilisation," as the English spell it, a 13-week series produced by BBC to great acclaim in Britain. When the National Gallery of Art in Washington obtained the filmed series last year for showing on a movie screen, nothing had prepared the gallery's staff for the overwhelming response. Crowds lined up hours in advance several times a day, week after week, from winter through summer for a visual tour of Western culture as guided by art historian Kenneth Clark.

But, alas, the series went begging for a sponsor on the commercial networks. Only on non-commercial TV, it seemed, could such tastes be catered to -- an only there because of a timely grant from the Xerox Corporation expressly for the broadcast of "Civilisation." Money problems may be eased somewhat in the months ahead. The Corporation for Public Broadcasting will receive $30 million from Congress this fiscal year, twice as much as last year, if a bill passed by the House on Sept. 10 is accepted by the Senate.

Eight new nationally scheduled programs, in addition to "Civilisation," will be shown on many of the nation's 198 public television stations in the coming season. They include the "Nader Report," depicting Ralph Nader's continuing fight for consumer causes, and "Black Frontier," telling of the Negro's contriubution to American development. Awardwinning "Sesame Street" will be back. So will "Kukla, Fran and Ollie," the puppets who were viewed by a lot of today's parents when they were children.

Instant House

Prefabricated modules may be the answer to urban housing problems. It has been predicted the structures will make up 90 per cent of new U.S. homes within the next decade. In New York City (above) a 10-ton module is lowered into courtyard of the Whitney Museum. The General Shelter unit is one of four which form a two-story townhouse set up in less than 24 hours in the heart of Manhattan. At right, a crane places modular section for a new low-rise apartment building in Bradford, Pa.

Flying Fees For Davis Called High

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Investigative reporters for the Kansas City Star and the St. Louis Post Dispatch said today Missouri's agriculture commissioner, Dexter D. Davis of St. Joseph, spent $1,619.50 last May for a charter airplane trip to Houston, Tex. and return.

That was more than twice the commercial air cost for Davis and four of his supervisory employes, said Star reporter T. Wayne Mitchell and Louis J. Rose of the Post Dispatch.

The plane that time and on a number of other flights chartered by Davis was rented from Roy G. Horridge Jr., a Kansas City charter service operator and an honorary colobel on the staff of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

In calendar 1969 and the first half of this year, the report said $21,541.63 was paid to Horridge Enterprises by the [illegible]lture department. During the same period the department spent $9,498.21 on commercial airline flights.

Davas defended the Houston charter by saying that some papers were late in preparation and besides the group carried quite a few pounds of hams and other gifts to Houston meetings of the Mid-America International Agri-Trade Council, the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture and a supermarket convention.

Davis also defended his flights to and from his home at St. Joseph by saying they were business trips in behalf of the department. He denied he was making the state pay for his commuting.

Davis appointed by Hearnes in 1965, is the brother of True Davis an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic U.S. senatorial nomination in 1968 and now a Washington, D. C banker.

3 Face Sniper Charges

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Two men and a woman were arraigned on charges of second-degree murder today in the death of a truck driver whose 21- ton cargo of dynamite exploded when apparently struck by a bullet Wednesday.

Bond of $100,000 each was set by Magistrate E. A. Barbour of Greene County Court, who scheduled a preliminary hearing Oct. 21.

Charged with second degree murder are Bobby Lee Shuler, 29, Gerald Lee Bowden, 29, and his wife, Sharon Lynn Bowden, 27, all of Joplin, Mo. The men were identified as striking truck drivers.

Two other men questioned through the day were released Wednesday night.

A woman who had been questioned was released by county authorities but was kept in Greene County jail as a witness for federal authorities.

In Kansas City today Burt C. Hurn, U. S. district attorney, said federal officials have been participating in the investigation and that some of the persons involved including the woman held in Springfield are expected to appear before a U. S. grand jury in Kansas City Friday.

John Galt, 48, of Oklahoma City, the driver of the truck, was killed in the blast which left a hole 30 feet deep and 50 feet wide in Interstate 44 about 12 miles west of Springfield.

The truck was operated by Tri-State Motors, Inc., of Joplin, which has continued operations despite a strike by Teamsters that began Sept. 14.

R.E. Perkins, vice president of the firm, said Shuler and Bowden had worked for the firm before the strike and were members of Teamsters Local 823.

Bill Kitts, president of the local, said today Shuler and Bowden were members of the union.

Jim Mitchel, agent in charge of the FBI office here, said he was investigating the case for possible filing of federal charges of destruction of interstate property.

The truck, loaded with 21 tons of the explosives, was en route to a mining area in southeastern Missouri, Perkins said.

He said the vehicle was part of a three-truck convoy and at least one of the other trucks, which carried no load, was fired at.

A witness said he saw a shot fired at Galt's truck from a car and followed it. Police later found an abandoned car matching the description and bearing Tennessee plates.

Highway patrol investigators found a 30-30 rifle and expended cartridges along an exit ramp of the four-lane highway.

The shock wave of the blast rolled through Springfield like an earthquake and was felt 15 miles away.

Galt, a father of five children, had telephoned his wife in Oklahoma City from Joplin Tuesday night to let her know he had found work. It was his first run for Tri-State after being out of a job several weeks.

Bomb Scare Empties Factory

A woman telephone caller who said there was a bomb scheduled to "blow within the hour" resulted this morning in the evacuation of 476 employes at the International Shoe Company plant.

The unidentified woman first called at 7:40 a.m. with the bomb threat. Another phone call believed to be from the same woman was received at 8:22 a.m. warned the reported bomb would "go off any minute."

No bomb went off and employes resumed work at 8:40 a.m.

F. L. Rudd, plant superintendent, said "I have no idea" why the threat was made. Last night the company settled a contract, with local 120A of the CIO Boot and Shoe Workers Union but Rudd said there had been no disgruntlement over it.

Company officials called police and sheriff's officers. The building was searched but no bomb was found.

Sheriff John Dennis learned from Rudd that someone stays in the building throughout the night. The sheriff said it would be hard for anyone to "get anything in here."

A check with company officials showed no one leaving the premises this morning prior to the bomb scare. Charles Laird, officer manager, said he knows of no one who recently has become angry at the company because of discontinued employment.

The initial call was received by a secretary, Edith Ford. The second call was received by Laird.

"I didn't get a chance to say anything to her," Laird said. "She said the place was gonna go up any minute."

Laird said there had been no previous threats.

Moscow Protests Anti-Soviet Acts

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union lodged a protest with the U.S. Embassy today charging that "an unbridled anti-Soviet campaign is being conducted in the United States for some time now by Zionist organizations."

"The government of the U.S.S.R. insists resolutely that the government of the United States should take all the necessary measures to cut short the dangerous actions of the Zionist extremists, which arouse the legitimate indignation of the Soviet public," the note said.

in Washington, the State Department declined immediate comment, saying the text of the note had not been seen as yet.

The protest said the campaign is accompanied by threats and provocations against institutions and representatives of the Soviet Union in the United States.

School Tangle Begins Easing

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis area's tangled public school situation began clearing up a bit Wednesday with the approval of school levies in districts where tax propositions had failed repeatedly.

Voters in St. Louis County's Ritenour district gave a 67.7 per cent majority to a $4.77 per $100 assessed valuation levy.

In St. Charles County, Wentzville district voters gave a $5.43 levy a 72.8 per cent majority.

The Wentzville Board of Education met immediately and voted to open schools Friday. School doors have remained closed to the district's 3,000 students this fall because of a lack of funds.

Two districts, Hazelwood and Riverview Gardens are operating without tax levies. Public schools in neighboring East St. Louis remain closed by a teachers' strike

Fiscal Session Urged

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The chairman of the appropriations committee of the Missouri House said today he has asked Gov. Warren E. Hearnes for a special session of the Legislature and has proposed a revenue plan he said would produce an additional $67 million a year.

Rep. E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell, D-Overland, said his plan would include establishment of a 3 per cent sales tax on all advertising, to produce an estimated annual yield of $35 million; elimination of tax exemptions on quarry and mining operations, to produce $25 million, and elimination of the tax exemption on newsprint, to produce $7 million.

He said he also suggested a formula be established by which some of the yield would be shared with the cities.

Hearnes thanked him for the suggestions and said he would talk with Cantrell about it later.

Cantrell said in a statement "I recognize my suggestion will not be popular with the special interests that are presently exempted. However, I am of the firm opinion the projected measures are fair and if enacted by the General Assembly, along with a revised income tax on individuals and corporations, would provide adequate funds for the needs of Missouri during the immediate crisis and avert a similar situation for the next budget year and possibly for a period beyond that."

Last April 7 the voters soundly defeated the governor's proposed income tax reform law that was supposed to boost state revenues by $106 million in 18 months of collections.

Cantrell said at his own expense he is sending out 6,000 copies of his proposal to all sorts of Missourians, including school officials, nursing home operators, legislators and others to get their reaction.

He based the estimates on what the proposal would provide in additional revenue on figures supplied him by John H. Elliott, administartive assistant in the Department of Revenue.

In a memorandum to Cantrell dated Sept. 30, Elliott said "The Department of Revenue regards the foregoing figures as conservative. While not guaranteed to be precisely accurate, we nevertheless regard these figures entirely reasonable."

Nixons Visit Tito's Boyhood Home

KUMROVEC, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Nixon and President Tito, having spent two hours talking over world problems in Belgrade, came to this old home town of the Yugoslav president today in a pouring rain. Their wives and aides accompanied them.

Almost every one of the 283 residents of the village were on hand to greet them despite the cold, wet weather. They came here from Zagreb, the Croatian capital, by car because the bad weather barred a planned helicopter trip.

In Belgrade, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said the two presidents explored in their talks means of settling the Middle East crisis that would take into account Palestinian interests.

"The need was expressed ... that conditions be created for a peaceful solution of the present political crisis and that care be taken over all aspects of this complicated international problem, including the interests of the people of Palestine," Tanjug said.

Beside U.S.-Yugoslav cooperation, Nixon and Tito devoted their greatest attention to "the present situation in the Middle East following the death of President Nasser.

The two presidents also stated their policies on Indochina, Tanjug said, meaning Tito repeated Belgrade demands for full withdrawal of U.S. forces.

There was no indication immediately what trend the Nixon-Tito conversations in the federal executive council building took, but undoubtedly they covered the difficult situation in the Middle East.

Nixon arrived at Tito's office half an hour behind schedule. By prearrangement with the Yugoslav leader, he had stopped en route to meet with Dragoslav Markovic, president of Serbia, largest of the country's six republics.

After spending about 15 minutes in the downtown Serbian Council Building—and receiving from Markovic a bronze sculpture entitled "Mother and Child" for the White House collection, Nixon went to the Federal Executive Council Building for his meeting with Tito.

For several downtown blocks, crowds were almost as large as when the President arrived in Belgrade Wednesday.

14 Nations Favor U. N. Hijack Item

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Fourteen countries of Asia, Europe and Latin America had a letter ready to submit to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant today asking that the General Assembly put on its agenda an item titled "Aerial Hijacking or Interference with Civil Air Travel."

Their action came two days after the release of the last six hijack hostages held in Jordan by Palestinian guerrillas.

The six, all Americans, arrived in the United States Wednesday night.

In a reciprocal agreement, Britain, Switzerland and West Germany freed seven Arab commandos, including 24- year-old Leila Khaled. They arrived in Cairo today.

In a recent public speech, U Thant proposed that an international tribunal be established to try suspected hijackers.

Romulo found, he said later, that the idea was too complicated, but he got the agreement of many countries to ask that the hijacking problem go on the agenda.

Masses Honor Nasser

CAIRO (AP) — Gamal Abdel Nasser, hero of the Arab world, was laid to rest wrapped in a simple white sheet today after a funeral that provided an emotional explosion for millions of adoring Egyptians.

Nasser's body was taken from the casket after prayers by Egypt's top religious leader, Sheik Mohammed Fahhan, preacher at the centuries old Al-Zahar mosque.

Verses from the Moslem Holy book, the Koran, were read by religious leaders as they placed Nasser's body in the grave in the garden of the Manshiet el Bakry mosque in a Cairo suburb.

Outside the mosque thousands of distraught Egyptians cried and shouted as their adored leader was interred.

Solemn-faced Egyptian dignitaries, not striving to hold back their tears, lined up at the graveside as the body was lowered. People broke through and rushed into the mosque garden to see the final moments of Nasser's funeral. The flag covering the casket was torn.

It was an emotional explosion for the Egyptians and the Arab world.

An explosion which began as millions of wailing, tearful Arabs and Egyptians massed along the 13-mile funeral route as an army helicopter started their beloved leader on his final journey.

As the procession began moving slowly away from the island, there was the thud of a 101-gun salute fired from Cairo's Citadel, the ancient fortress dominating the city.

The first mile was reserved for the official mourners but from there, the radio said, "the funeral belongs to the people."

Moslems throughout the Arab world planned to pray in their own mosques, and processions were planned in the streets of cities and villages throughout the Middle East.

Arabs in Israel and the Israeli-held territories also mourned. The biggest demonstration of grieving for Nasser was at Al Aqsa mosque in Jerusalem's ancient walled city. Thousands of Moslems shouted "God is great!" and chanted "Nasser, Nasser."

On the other side of the wall thousands of Jews were deep in prayer marking the start of the Jewish new year.

A huge procession was planned in Beirut, and Christians in the Lebanese capital decided to honor the Arab leader with prayers in their churches.

Among the world leaders in Cairo were President Makarios of Cyprus, Premier Jacques Chablan-Delmas of France and Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas Home of Britain. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliott Richardson represented the United States.

Pornography Report Blasted Both for Going Too Far and Not Far Enough

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission's call for repeal of U.S. adult antismut laws has been blasted as "the Denmark option" by three dissenting members—but two others say it doesn't go far enough.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew dismissed the 18-member Commission on Obscenity and Pornography report out of hand during a speech in Salt Lake City Wednesday night. He called it a product of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's administration.

"It's not our baby," Agnew said of the 12-member majority's report. "This commission was not named by President Nixon...As long as Richard Nixon is President, Main Street is not going to turn into Smut Alley."

However, two members of the commission, both sociologists, said the panel should have recommended repeal of all U.S. antismut laws, including those banning the sale of pornography to children.

"There is no substantial evidence that exposure to juveniles is necessarily harmful," said professor Otto N. Larsen of the University of Washington and Marvin E. Wolfgang, chairman of the University of Pennsylvania's sociology department.

"There may even be beneficial effects," they said, "if for no other reason than the encouragement of open discussion about sex between parents and children relatively early in young lives."

But Charles H. Keating Jr., President Nixon's only appointee to the commission, accused the panel of "following the Pied Piper of Denmark." He said its proposals would turn the United States into a "pagan, animalistic" country if Congress paid any attention to them.

The commission's recommendations Wednesday to repeal adult censorship laws but enact laws against publicly displaying obscene pictures or selling them to children would parallel Denmark's liberal sex laws.

The commission said it was not opening the door to live sex shows like Denmark's, which it said would remain subject to local indecent exposure, sodomy and disorderly conduct laws.

Chairman William B. Lockhart, dean of the University of Minnesota school of law, did not disavow the Denmark comparison at a news conference, although he denied the commission was following Denmark's laws.

He said there might be a short-lived increase in U.S. demand for erotica if adult laws were repealed "but as in Denmark that will not be lasting." He said in the long run U.S. demand for erotica probably would decrease, as he said it has in Denmark.

Father Morton A. Hill of New York City, who joined Keating and the Rev. Winfrey C. Link of Hermitage, Tenn., in accusing the commission of slanting its report in favor of the pornography industry, said the effect of repeal would not be the same in America as in Denmark.

"The United States is not Denmark," he said. "Denmark does not have the crime we do, the unrest, the explosiveness. The Danes themselves told me when I was there these laws would bring disaster to America."

The commission's long-expected recommendations got little immediate reaction from Congress but one of the key proposals in Hill, Keating and Link's minority report was immediately introduced in the House.

It would add a definition to federal antiobscenity law specifying that "social redeeming value"—the basis on which a number of sexy films and books have been ruled not obscene by the courts—is not a legitimate test of obscenity.

The bill was introduced by Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., of the House Post Office Committee which has begun public hearings into the commission's conduct and findings.

Danforth Spurns Hearnes

Wednesday Danforth declined to discuss with the governor the administration's pluses and minuses as Hearnes had suggested.

"It is the people of Missouri, not I, who deserve to hear your explanations of what has been going on in our state government."

Danforth said he referred to explanations of whether the administration was involved in the failure of the bank of Bonne Terre, Mo., the expense accounts approved for State Department of Agriculture employes and the difficulties of the Department of Revenue.

"During the past year," Danforth wrote the governor, "your administration has been repeatedly rocked by scandal. The people of Missouri have lost confidence in their state government. Since you have initiated attacks against me, I believe it is especially appropriate for you to put your own house in order."

Patrolman Shot to Death

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A patrolman was shot to death today when a man he stopped for questioning fired a shotgun blast at point blank range, police reported.

Patrolman John Burke, 27, died of a neck wound.

His death was the 15th in the nation this year in apparently unprovoked attacks on police officers.

Police said Burke, a member of the city's K-9 squad, had gotten out of his station wagon in the heart of the city's main business district to question two Negro men.

Without warning, police said, one of the men drew a shotgun and fired. Burke's dog, Thor, was still in the wagon, tied to a post.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

About three weeks after her wedding, the average bride returns to earth and is able to recognize her own mother. She is so badly spoiled by showers and the attention she received at her wedding that it takes her that long.

We notice in some of the literature of Bill Burlison, who is a candidate for re- election for Congressman from the 10th District, that he was Prosecuting Attorney of Cape Girardeau County three terms. He was Assistant Attorney General of Missouri under three Attorney Generals: John Dalton, later Governor of Missouri; Thomas Eagleton, now Senator of Missouri; Norman Anderson, past Attorney General of Missouri. He was head of the General Courts - Martial Prosecutor, Second Marine Division, U.S. Marine Corps, Camp Lejeune, North Carolina. He was President of Missouri State Prosecuting Attorneys Association (1967). Graduated with honors from U.S. School of Naval Justice, Newport, Rhode Island. Graduated from Missouri University School of Law. Member of the Missouri Bar Association (14 years). Member of American Bar Association (9 years). Member of Cape County Bar Association (9 years). Admitted to Practice U.S. Supreme Court, U.S. Court of Military Appeals, U.S. District Court, and all Missouri Courts. Member of the Missouri Peace Officers Association. Member of the National District Attorneys Association. Vice- Chairman of the Missouri Bar Committee on Criminal Law. Member of the American Bar Association Committee on Criminal Law.

This is what Bill Burlison has done, but we notice that the American Legion called on Gary Rust to come down and crown some of the Tots, which I presume is all right, but if I had anything to do with it we'd have some Democrats down here.

I really get quite a bang out of the press releases and the speeches that Gary Rust is making in his campaign against Bill Burlison. I wonder if anybody believes what he says. I wonder if they think he'll do what he thinks he'll do, if he should happen to get there, which I don't think he's going to. But that doesn't make any difference what I think nor how I'm going to vote. But I just think that people ought to remembr that when you're not in office you can make any kind of remark that you want to make and some people believe, but most of them don't.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT?

Inconceivable as it may seem to the hard- pressed taxpayer, forced ever closer to an austerity existence by crushing taxes and inflation, the wheels of the bureaucratic spending machine in Washington, D.C., are still well - oiled by endless proposals to launch the government into commercial business enterprises such as electric power. A classic instance has been the Dickey - Lincoln School federal hydroelectric project in the state of Maine.

This project has come before Congress many times and has been rejected in each instance. On the occasion of its most recent reintroduction, Congressman Frank M. Clark of Pennsylvania remarked, ''It is hoped that the House Appropriations Committee will not allow funds for this patently absurd Dickey project..." Congressman Clark proceeds to list the facts that explain why Dickey-Lincoln has been turned down by Congress for six years. "First. The projects will waste close to one- half billion of taxpayers' money: Second. It would produce power for only 2 hours a day at an exorbitant cost and located over 400 miles from where the power is needed; Third. It would be highly destructive to the natural beauty of the St. Johns River and is actively opposed by a multitude of conservation groups."

The investor- owned electric industry pays heavy taxes for the ''privilege" of serving the power consumer of the nation. In carrying out its task, which requires the investment of billions of dollars of new capital every year, it is a close ally of the general taxpayer as a supporter of government. It should not be handicapped in its job of producing power, as well as tax revenue, by political schemes to add tax- exempt commercial electric power projects to the government's many other activities-- projects with which no taxpaying private enterprise can compete and the cost of which becomes just another burder to taxpayers.

The human race will never be universally courteous and helpful until the Lord sends down an affliction that will force every member of it to use crutches at least one day a week.

One of the things that bothers me about dogs in a big city is that so many of them live out their existences without ever having the fun of burying a bone in a backyard.

One solution of the miniskirt maxiskirt controversy that has upset style conscious women would be to have them wear mini-length petticoats and over them a maxiskirt made of seethrough plastic. That would certainly solve the problem from the male point of view.

Some people make it a point of pride never to be unduly stirred by anything. When shown Niagara Falls for example, Oscar Wilde remarked only that they would be far more impressive if the water ran the other way.

There is a connection between brains and money—but not a happy one. It doesn't take a lot of brains to make a lot of money; even a little money, however, can at times upset the brainest of men.

One of the reasons many people wouldn't want to live their lives over again is that they can't stand the thought of having to fill out all those government forms a second time.

TWO-WAY STREET OF LABOR, INDUSTRY

Current or upcoming major negotiations in eight key industries — trucking, railroads, construction, rubber, automobiles, apparel, meat packing and farm machinery — will directly involve some 5 million workers this year.

Union leaders are serving notice that they intend to get substantial wage increases for their members in an attempt to catch cup with inflation and in spite of warnings that excessive wage settlements will only fan inflation the more. The Teamsters, for one, are demanding wage and benefit increases totaling more than 95 per cent over a three -year period.

All in all, 1970 could shape up as the most strife -torn, strike -torn year in the nation's history, with the number of decalrations of war between labor and management topping 1969's record 5,600.

This gloomy forecast comes from the National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, who accompany their warning with a position paper calling for basic labor law reforms and urging Congress to "inquire into the dangerous imbalance of power favoring labor over management and to consider legislative means for correcting that imbalance to protect the public interest.'.

The paper claims that pro -union decisions by the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) and the courts have contributed to a tremendous growth in union power since World War II, giving unions a dominant position over the economy.

"These decisions subordinate the rights of individual employes to the organized power of unions; encroach upon management's authority to operate efficiently; enable unions to apply coercive pressures on union members, employers and even the government itself, and give unions special privileges not enjoyed by any other segment of society."

Pro -unionists, of course, will question business' tender concern for the public interest and the rights of individual workers and can point out that if there are cases where unions have become too strong, there are just as many where workers have not been unionized enough or at all.

Employes of an Akron, Ohio, department store, for example, have for several years been trying to join the Retail Clerks union. They have followed all the rules and in at least two secret -ballot elections have voted overwhelmingly for union representation.

But resistance by management and excessive devotion to red tape by NLRB officials continue to deny these workers the right of collective bargaining. In the meantime, employer -employe relations deteriorate and eventually a strike may be the workers' last recourse.

The Akron example is a replay in miniature of what it was like in the old days when the major industries fiercely resisted unionization. We have not really come very far since then.

All industry has benefited from the expansion of the economy, brought about in large measure by the payment of a decent wage to workers. So, too, have workers benefited from a system which allows management to run its business in a way that brings in a reasonable profit.

Yet far too often do employer and employe still believe that the one is the enemy of the other and that the one is to be exploited by the other, rather than realizing that niether could exist without the other. Power is used against power, resulting in abuses by both sides.

The C of C and the NAM are right in calling for basic reforms. But the reforms are needed not only in law but in attitudes as well.

WHEN IS A WORD AN ACCEPTABLE WORD?

What makes a combination of letters a word? And how is a new word accepted by the lexicographer of society?

A Penn State professor of speech, Dr. Gerald Phillips, wants to find out. So he has coined the new word called khulyages, "I do not know what it means, I urge you to use it every chance you get and hopefully it will acquire creditability and meaning," he told his class. "There are really no good common American words that start with K-H in our dictionary anyway, and it will be a boon to Scrabble fans all over the world."

One unidentified youngster who slipped this note under Dr. Phillips' door one day said, "Khulyages is a situation in which alternatives are perfectly clear, but what is not clear is whether the alternatives are any better than the situation. Example: You're in a cafeteria and you have a tuna and noodle casserole in front of you when all of a sudden you realize they're also serving Sloppy Joes and Chop Suey."

IS IT WORTH IT?

The American oil industry has been under attack by politicians who apparently wish to gain favor with some elements in our society by destroying this vital industry. They have sought legislation to deny oil operators tax incentives enjoyed by other industries and to legislate a shelter system which would give foreign producers advantages over U.S. operators in our domestic market.

Their excuse for favoring foreign oil is a claim that it would bring lower prices to the U.S. consumer, but more careful analysis shows that such a situation would probably save the average motorist only about one -tenth of one cent per gallon on petroleum products, or about one dollar per year. For this, the import zealots advocate measures which would endanger, if not destroy, the U.S. oil industry, which is the chief source of power for national defense.

The basic prices of oil and gasoline and other petroleum products are much the same today as they were four decades ago when the percentage depletion tax allowance was instituted to spur exploration and production. Production has been the key to keeping oil prices down, in the face of spiraling inflation. The gradual increase of federal and state taxes on petroleum products has caused the higher prices which consumers now pay for gasoline and oil.

The U.S. oil industry employs millions of people, in production, supply, and transportation. All these families would be directly affected by destruction of the oil industry, which seems to be what a few politicians are willing to do in order to gain some short -range political benefits for themselves. Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Florida has opened the gates of its notorious state prison at Raiford to this column.

My associate, Les Whitten, was taken on an unprecedented backroom tour by an ex-convict, who dared to come back and point out the horrors. They found shocking conditions that, according to the evidence in our files, aren't unique to Florida but exist in prisons throughout the country.

As Florida's prison czar Dr. James Bax had promised, the authorities allowed Whitten to speak privately with prisoners and to dig deeply into prison records. Bax also gave his word there would be no retribution against prisoners. This may be a more difficult promise for him to keep from his distant office in Tallahassee.

Several inmates whispered out their woes or pressed written accounts of their experiences into Whitten's hands. Already, reports have reached us of ugly retaliation against those whom the guards suspected of giving information.

Flint -faced guards also glowered at Whitten's guide, John Ricardo, a handsome, 34 -year -old ex-burglar, whose former cellmates hissed a warning through bars that, in reprisal, he might be "set up" and arrested on a phony charge by friends of prison officers.

MEDICAL BEDLAM

The most depressing place was the hospital where Whitten saw patients lying in the halls like beggars in Bedlam, trying to get a doctor's attention. Cockroaches skittered up the walls and ants filed busily to food spots on the floor.

In an earlier column, based upon affidavits and smuggled documents, we told of a man who lost his hand through negligence and another with roaches in his head wound. Prison officials scoffed at the stories.

Whitten searched out Milt Frank, a convict with half his hand gone, who swore that a medical technician, J.J. Murphy, had refused him adequate treatment. Murphy, in a long interview, denied it.

The prison records show Murphy diagnosed the swollen, gangrenous hand as a fracture and sent Frank to the University of Florida hospital for treatment. There, the records show it was 40 hours after a fall caused his hand to swell before he reached the university hospital only 35 miles away.

Whitten also talked to Tony Antone who, despite fear of retribution, said roaches had crawled down his face twice after his head bandages were unwound. On one occasion, he swore, hospital personnel had to pick the insects out of the wound.

UNSPEAKABLE NEGLECT

"Gradually, I'm losing the use of my legs," whispered Daniel Benitez, 32, hoarsely. ''It's driving me crazy." Paralyzed from the waist down by a bullet, Benitez has needed physical therapy and braces for a year. But the hospital hasn't found money even to buy him a urine bag that doesn't leak.

Another paraplegic, Leroy Toombs, 21, wheeled up and pleaded: "I could walk if I had some braces." The once husky Negro, now down to 95 pounds, lifted his pajama pants to show a pair of pipestem legs.

Still another fragile man, William Morgan, 51, bedridden for 11 years, exposed an abdomen which was a mass of surgical scars. He is literally held together by a ramshackle brace which has broken down 15 times and should have been replaced long ago. It is also wearing a hole in his back.

Ricardo had to fend off prisoners trying to tell my associate their stories, but one with compelling eyes hissed: "Go in there." They entered a crowded ward just as the hospital's medical director, Dr. D.G. Limcangco, bustled out.

In a bed, his knee swollen with blood like an enormous beet, was David Rich, 24, a hemophiliac or "bleeder." For the past four days, he had lain in the hospital lobby suffering the hideous agony of the bleeder and calling for some doctor to ease his anguish. His medical record shows he threatened to stab himself in the knee to relieve the pressure from the internal bleeding.

BELATED RELIEF

Dr. Limcangco, learning that Whitten was heading in Rich's direction, had rushed up and ordered Demerol at last to kill his pain and to quiet his cries. The suffering Rich, an air -conditioning expert on the outside, was jailed for selling Demerol, the same addictive drug which alone gives him relief. Yet neither addiction nor hemophilia can be properly treated in this Dante's hell of a hospital, as its superintendent, Don Hassfurder, admitted.

In contrast with the hospital, the administration building is paneled, air -conditioned and richly furnished. The warden's suite rivals President Nixon's office. Hundreds of thousands of dollars, intended to improve the prison, have been spent upon the comforts of prison officials.

In fairness, these expenditures were made before Governor Claude Kirk came to power and began preaching prison reform. But there are still more mail censors, working in air -conditioned splendor, than there are psychologists at Raiford.

There is a shortage, too, of guards. At peak dining hours Hassfurder has to juggle guard details like a general who has run out of divisions.

Correctional officers make about $417 a month, tower guards only $385. Zoo keepers in Florida make $465. The need for guards is so critical that Hassfurder can't afford to give them psychiatric tests nor to worry whether they attended high school.

Who is to blame for conditions at Raiford? Hassfurder seems to be doing his best. Dr. James Bax, in Tallahassee, has fought for improvements. It's the taxpayers who are responsible.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

RAPPING THE HARDHATS: Nixon Adviser Says He'll Get Justice Dept. To Force Black Workers Into Construction Unions

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- At least one of President Nixon's inner circle is swinging hard at the hard hats -- and when he hits , he hits. He's big. He's black. He carries a long, deceivingly innocent title which nonetheless has a longer, tougher built -in club. It can affect tens of billions of dollars worth of government construction.

He is the 45 -year -old Art Fletcher, Assistant Secretary of Labor for Workplace Standards Administration.

The other day Art Fletcher, who once played end for the Los Angeles Rams and Baltimore Colts, tackled the entire labor movement. In effect, he warned the Pentagon that there would have to be more black workers on all of its construction projects.

Later that day, Mr. Fletcher, who is one of Mr. Nixon's favorite dinner guests be it in the State Dining room or the East Room (and I've encountered him on the second floor at some gatherings), told a caller that he was ready to crack down on the labor movement if more blacks were not admitted to the top income constructive unions. And other unions as well.

He said he was examining his "options." He added that he was collecting "evidence" to prove that union hiring halls were keeping blacks from employment. And so, said he, were union seniority lists. If necessary, he said with characteristic blunt finality -- like picking up an over -the -line pass and running head down -- he would go to the Justice Dept. for action against the hiring halls. He would attempt to set aside seniority lists on which promotions into higher paying job classifications are based.

These were his replies when the caller had asked what he meant when he had said that "the moment of truth" had come for American labor.

He had told a Congressional subcommittee tha he had "found that business and industry want to comply. All they want to know is 'tell us what you want us to do and we'll do it.' " He also had said that he was taking a hard look at "a whole industry that operates under exclusive hiring contracts. It may be that every company in that industry is not in compliance because of the labor contracts. We're really just moving into it to be bluntly frank."

He would not disclose which "entire industry" but other sources disclosed he meant beer brewing.

Mr. Fletcher and the labor movement's top leaders are at thorny odds. AFL -CIO President George Meany himself went out of his way at a recent Sheet Metal Workers international convention to retort to a series of similar charges of blocking the blacks from unions and high paying hourly rated jobs.

Mr. Meany's position is that the "only way minority groups could come into the skilled trades "is by the apprenticeship route." They must learn the trade, says he. Then he whipped at his critics.

"There are some people who make a profession of being civil righters," Mr. Meany said a week before Mr. Fletcher cut loose, "who want to right the wrongs, as they say, of many years past. They want something that might be described as instant qualification that instantly qualifies a member of the minority group as a member of one of our unions and as a mechanic."

Mr. Meany added that "the unions will not buy" instant qualification. The nation's top labor chief reported he had told this to George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

To take in half -qualified black young workers would be "a fraud on the trade" and "a fraud and a delusion to the young Negro applicants, because if they became members under those circumstances, they could not work on the job that required a full skill, either as a plumber, electrician, sheet metal worker, engineer, or anyone else."

The labor chief said that the AFL-CIO is recruiting applications through "Operation Outreach" in 70 major cities and have had "well over 7000 minority applicants, 60 per cent of them in the so-called highly skilled trades..." The Philadelphia plan, said he, is a "phony."

This resentment against consistent critics also was reflected in a recent angry speech unleashed by the carpenters' union president Maurice Hutcheson.

".. in spite of all our policy statements," said Mr. Hutcheson, "in spite of all our sincere efforts, in spite of all our successful working programs, in spite of all our desires to have a larger and better trained labor force, we are constantly harassed by bureaucrats and so-called 'liberals.' We make jobs available and jobs go unfilled. We offer training programs and no one shows up."

Then he attacked the critics of the construction unions as being "not one bit interested in obtaining work or training ..." for "those members of the minority they pretend to speak for and help ..."

Mr. Hutcheson charged these critics were using the issue for personal publicity or to advance themselves politically and "to cover up for their own inadequacies."

Mr. Hutcheson further charged these critics were motivated by reasons "not related to the problem."

And it is quite a problem. It will get noisier as the war fronts get quieter -- and the destruction of the enemy abroad is replaced by reconstruction of the cities at home.

CLOTHING DEPOT supported by the Church Women United of Sikeston is located in the D.A.E.O.C. center at the Sikeston airport. Church Women United Support Clothing Depot With Dedication

By BARBARA LACY

I had heard of the Clothing Depot only since it was reopened Church Women United in the spring of 1969.

But that was because I was new in town. The Clothing Depot has been providing clothes for needy families for over 20 years. A generation of children has grown-up wearing the clothes other children provides.

Today the depot is at its 7th location, in the DAEOC headquarters in the Airport school complex.

Presently, over 200 families use the depot. Each family is allowed 2 garments for each member of his family, once a month.

The families usually return every month. Often, in the hope, that this time there will be some children's clothes there.

"Children clothes are our greatest need," Miss Jewel Allen, Sikeston City Welfare director said. "We desperately need them." Mrs. Allen has had complete charge of the depot several times now. She is delighted that it is run by Church Women United and their volunteers. She maintains an active interest in the depot.

The participating churches rotate monthly in staffing the depot with 2 volunteers to work from 1-5 p.m. each Tuesday.

Volunteers have always been important to the clothing depot.

First, all clothing is donated - it may be taken to the depot or to a sponsoring church. Only clean clothes in good condition need apply. All others will be turned down - as it is not a policy at the clothing depot to clean or repair clothes.

The depot was begun as a volunteer program in the early 1940's, by the Womens Civic Club. It was housed in a mobile room just east of the present telephone company.

Next, it was upstairs in the old city bilding for three years.

When the city welfare office became an agency of the United Fund in 1948, the Civic Club asked the city welfare director, Janice Edmunson, to assume responsibility of the room.

Thus, the clothing depot became the responsibility of Mrs. Jewel Allen when she became city welfare director in Nov. 1951.

When the city building was razed to make room for the present telephone office, the Welfare office moved to the second floor of the public works building.

But here there was no room for the clothes.

At this time Mrs. Allen asked Church Women United to sponsor the depot. they found a building (now razed) behind the present A & P store, to operate from.

It was here, Mrs. Rex Johnson, volunteer, related, that the first and only robbery took place.

"I remember it so well, because my circle took a good supply of clothes that very day."

When this building was razed, the clothes were moved back to the Board of Public Works building - under Mrs. Allen's care.

"In 1960, I moved to the little white building on Scott street, taking the clothing depot with me," Mrs. Allen added.

"In 1969, Mrs. Burt Rowe, who was president of Church Women United, and Mrs. Edwin Willis, walked in and asked what they could do to help.

"I suggested that they take over the Clothing Depot.

"It opened Easter 1969 here at Airport School. I was delighted for Church Women United to take over, because they can serve a much larger territory. I was restricted to people living within the city limits of Sikeston.

"We now serve people from as far away as Haywood City. Incidently, a women's club in Haywood City contributes to the United Fund each year - so indirectly they help support us.

"But we have the same problem we've always had - no children clothes.

"Actually, we only had enough childrens clothes once. That was after the Jaycee's collected clothes for the Mississippi hurricane victims.

"The Jaycees called me one day and said that they had a lot of children's clothes left over; we could have them if we picked them up."

"I'll never forget, Mrs. Shirley Burton and Mrs. Lillian Matthews loaded a pick up truck full of clothes the first day. The next day they went back with a truck - and luckily, there was some one to help them load that day.

"Now, people don't expect to find childrens clothes here," she said sadly, looking around the clothing depot.

Three walls have long racks of women clothes hanging from unpainted racks. A closet and half-a-dozen packing boxes are also full of clothes - all in adult sizes.

"I've seen as many as 23 families here in one afternoon. It's about equally divided — about half our customers are Negro, half are white.

Mrs. William Corrigon, president; Mrs. Lennie Whitworth, vice-president; Mrs. Wagner, secretary; Mrs. Margaret Cain, treasurer; Mrs. Edwin Willis, clothing depot chairman.

Churches participating in Church Women United include: St. Francis Xavier Catholic, Westley Methodist, First United Methodist, Hunter Memorial Presbyterian, First Christian, Tanner Church of God, First Church of Nazarene, Apostalic Penecostal, Smith Chapel Methodist and Church of God in Christ.

Ann Landers

Great-Grandmother Wants to Become Enlightened About Homosexuals

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widow, age 70 years, and I live in Orlando, Florida. I had ne ver heard the word homosexual until two or three years ago. Now that's all I hear. The movies are full of it. No matter what paper or magazine a person picks up it's homosexual this and homosexual that. Homosexuals have their own church out in California and their own clubs all over the world. I read that they had a big parade in New York City. They want the laws changed so they can marry each other and adopt children.

Is homosexuality a new trend or what? I want to educate myself but where do I start? I have four children, six grandchildren and three great -grandchildren -- but I can't go to them.

Last week I went to the public library and asked the librarian for a book on homosexuality and she nearly fainted. When I saw how flustered she became I said, "Skip it," and I walked out. Now I'm too ashamed to go back there.

Please tell me what to read, Ann, I want to educte myself. -- Dumb Dora

Dear Dora: Go to another library where the librarians don't faint so easily. Ask for a copy of "Sex and Gender" by Dr. Robert Stoller, Professor of Psychiatry at U.C.L.A. and get yourself educated.

Dear Ann Landers: Please say a word about friends who drop in just as you are sitting down to eat. They were "passing by" and thought dinner would be over. Then they go into that old song and dance, "I don't eat liver but I'll sample the vegetables and salad." Or, "Gee, that stew looks good. I always say a home -cooked stew is better than a sirloin in the most expensive restaurant." (Of course it is. It's free.) Another line: "I'm not going to eat until later but I can't resist those rolls and maybe a small bowl of the yummy looking soup."

I'd hate to tell you how many times a person who "wasn't going to eat till later" put away three pork chops, my husband's second helping of applesauce and MY dessert.

If you know of a solution to this problem I'd like to have it. My husband and I are sick to death of being used in this shameless manner. --The Odd Couple

Dear Couple: The only solution is a closed door, drawn shades and total deafness to the sound of the doorbell.

Dear Ann Landers: Last year my wife and I were divorced. I could have taken our three children but she promised she.d behave if I let her have them. It made sense that children belong with their mother. I live in a small place and I would have had to buy a large home and hire a housekeeper which I can't afford.

My wife has a trampy girl friend who leeches off her. Together they make the bars around town and Lord knows what else they do. Last Friday my oldest boy, age 8, called me at 7:30 to say his mother had not come home from work and there was no supper. He had given the four -year -old left -over soup and put her to bed. I went over and brought some hamburgers, milk, cole slaw and ice cream.

At 2:00 a.m. my wife and her girl friend rolled in. They were higher than a couple of kites and looked like something the cat had dragged in. My wife was mad because I was there. She insisted the kids could have managed without me.

Now I'm concerned that my children aren't being taken care of properly. What can I do? --- Boca Raton

Dear B.R.: You can see a lawyer. An unfit mother should not have custody of her children. A woman who would leave three kids under 8 years of age alone until 2:00 a.m. doesn't sound very fit to me.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope.

Mets, Cubs Battle For Second

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The National League East battle—for the No. 2 spot—will be settled tonight when the New York Mets and Chicago Cubs meet while in Philadelphia the surprising Montreal Expos can avoid a basement finish with a victory as the regular season comes to a close.

Bill Hands stifled the Mets on seven hits Wednesday as the Cubs moved into a second place tie with their 2-0 triumph, setting up a confrontation between Chicago's 21-game winner Ferguson Jenkins facing Jim McAndrew, 10-13.

Second place is worth approximately $1,000 per man while the losing team will pick up about $300 apiece. The East champion Pirates have a fivegame lead as they get ready for Saturday's opening playoff game against the Cincinnati Reds.

The Expos exploded for four third inning runs to stop Philadelphia 5-4 and move one-half game ahead of the Phillies into fifth place.

Carl Morton, Montreal's rookie right-hander will be on the mound today trying to push the Phils into the cellar. The youngster hau taken 18 games this season and is a prime candidate for NL Rookie of the Year honors.

In other NL action, Houston edged San Francisco 4-3, St. Louis shaded Pittsburgh 4-3 and San Diego topped Los Angeles 2-1. Cincinnati and Atlanta were not scheduled.

In the American League, Baltimore topped Washington 6-2, New York nipped Boston 4-3, Detroit nudged Cleveland 4-3, Minnesota downed Kansas City 6-4, California trimmed Chicago 5-1 and Milwaukee beat Oakland 4-1.

The Cubs snapped a scoreless tie in the sixth inning as Mets' starter Nolan Ryan walked four Cubs for a run and Chicago added a tally in the seventh on Tommy Davis' run-scoring double.

The Expos trailed 3-1 in the third, when with two out, Jim Gosger drove in a run with a single, John Bateman followed with a two-run hit and Bobby Wine capped the inning by driving in Bateman with a triple.

In the West, Houston clinched fourth place, beating the Giants on John Edwards' run-scoring single with one out in the ninth off reliever Don McMahon. Larry Dierker, 16-12, was the Astros winner.

Coach Warns Buffs of K-State Potential

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Are the Colorado Buffaloes "self-satisfied" by last week's victory over Penn State? Coach Eddie Crowder thinks so and said Wednesday the Buffs are in for a surprise in their Big Eight football opener at Kansas State.

"Kansas State is a very physical team and their poor showing to date is the result of an injury to quarterback Lynn Dickey," Crowder said.

The other conference opener finds Missouri at Oklahoma State and Tiger Coach Dan Devine feels his squad is better prepared because good weather this week has permitted outside practices.

Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney was uncertain what kind of shoes the Cornhuskers would wear Saturday when they play on the artificial turf at Minnesota.

"We're going to take about three kinds of shoes," he said, ' 'because we don't know what kind we'll want to wear until we work out on it."

The question was asked Kansas Coach Pepper Rodgers if the KU stadium's artificial turf would hurt New Mexico Saturday. He would only say the Lobos would find it ' 'different."

He said tight end Larry Brown may miss the game because of an injured leg. ' 'If he plays, that's a bonus," Rodgers said.

Pitchers Tune-Up For Playoff Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore's soaring Orioles whipped Washington 6-2 Wednesday night as McNally tossed a four-hitter for his 24th victory of the season. It was the slick southpaw's final fling before his scheduled start against Minnesota in Sunday's second game of the American League pennant playoffs.

Blyleven, the Twins' 19-yearold fireballer, earned a starting assignment in the third game of the best-of-5 title series with a solid eight-inning effort in Minnesota's 6-4 victory over Kansas City.

Peterson became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career by hurling the New York Yankees past Boston 4-3 at Fenway Park, a graveyard for lefthanders because of its short left field wall—the Green Monster. It was the season finale for both clubs.

Elsewhere, California topped the Chicago White Sox 5-1; Milwaukee downed Oakland 4-1 and Detroit nipped Cleveland 4-3.

In National League play, St. Louis tripped Pittsburgh 4-3; the Chicago Cubs blanked the New York Mets 2-0; Montreal edged Philadelphia 5-4; San Diego topped Los Angeles 2-1 and Houston shaded San Francisco 4-3. Atlanta and Cincinnati were idle.

McNally, who had been bothered by elbow soreness in a previous start, went the distance without duress as the Orioles tied the club record with their 10th consecutive victory and extended Washington's losing streak to 13 games.

He struck out nine while moving alongside teammate Mike Cuellar and Minnesota's Jim Perry, the other 24-game winners in the majors. Merv Rettemund's two-run single and a two-run triple by Brooks Robinson broke the game open in the seventh inning.

Blyleven, who has won 10 games in half a season with the Twins, limited Kansas City to five hits and one earned run, but trailed 4-1 when he left for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The Twins won it in the ninth with a four-run rally capped by pinch hitter Paul Ratliff's three-run homer.

"That job today made up my mind," Twins' Manager Bill Rigney said in announcing that Blyleven would get a shot at the Orioles.

Peterson, 20-11, defied the Fenway jinx for seven innings, gave up a two-run homer by rookie Luis Alvarado in the eighth and got ninth-inning help from reliever Lindy McDaniel. It was his first victory ever at Boston.

The Red Sox' Carl Yastrzemski, gunning for a fourth AL batting title, went 1-for-4 to finish his season with a .329 average. Runnerup Alex Johnson of California was 1-for-3 against the White Sox and remained at .327 with one game to play.

SEMO's Unbeaten List Down to Three

East Prairie, Charleston and Caruthersville claim the distinction of being the only unbeatens as the prep grid season moves into its fourth week tomorrow night.

Caruthersville is the only one with any kind of blemish on its record as it played to a scoreless standoff with Hayti for a tie.

Delta C-7, Chaffee, Kennett and Sikeston will be looking for their first wins tomorrow night, as all but C-7 have lost their opening three. C-7 has dropped two games.

Kennett will take its 19 game losing streak to Paragould, Ark. tomorrow evening while Sikeston takes a four- game losing skid with it as it travels to Memphis, Tenn. to face White Station. Chaffee will host I-SC and C-7 will be at Gideon in hopes of snapping its losing sting.

Conference games highlight most of the action as Charleston takes its unbeaten record (3-0) to Perryville for a Northern Division battle while Poplar Bluff takes on Jackson in another Northern match.

Cape Girardeau Central, who lost its first game of the season last week at St. Louis, is idle this week.

Bulldogs Faces Memphis' Third Rated Offensive Unit

Coach Bill Priday's injury riddled Bulldogs, take to the road tomorrow evening, after an unsuccessful home debut in which its losing streak reached three games with a 7-0 loss to arch- rival Charleston, to meet its newest addition to the schedule... White Station high of Memphis, Tenn.

Sikeston will try and fire up its offensive unit, which has produced only 19 points in three games, against a team that had produced 50 in three outings.

White Station, 1-2 overall and 1-0 in the Delta league, will feature junior quarterback Bobby Rowen who has rushed for 470 yards thus far this season, the 6- foot- 1 star is the son of former Mississippi state star Rip Rowen and brother of Mike Rowe, a reserve back for the University of Texas.

The Bulldogs haven't a standout star as no one has proven itself in the first three games of the season.

Due to the unusually large number of injuries, coach Priday was forced to go with seven juniors in the starting lineup last week and may have to add more.

Sikeston's offense has stalled with transfer Mike Berry calling the signals while its only big drives of the season came in the opening battle of the season with reserve Ken Barkett at the controls. Barkett is credited with engineering two TD's while Berry has only one to his credit in three games. Barkett has seen limited action.

White Station rates third in rushing in Memphis with a 244 yard average a game and is fifth in total offense with a 289.3 mark, showing it relies very little on its passing.

Injuries to the Sikeston team seems to have been centered on the guard position has coach Priday revealed this morning that he will be testing some sophomores at those key slots in tomorrow evenings game.

The game will be played at White Haven.

Brock Collects 200th Base Hit

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lou Brock of St. Louis and Matty Alou of Pittsburgh both collected their 200th hit of the season in Wednesday night's Cardinals-Pirates game, won 4-3 by St. Louis.

Brock's 200th hit was a runscoring single in the fifth inning, following by his 201st, a game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth with two out. Alou's 200th hit was a single in the sixth inning.

Brock had an even 200 hits in the 1964 Cardinals pennant season, his first with St. Louis. And he had 206 in 1967, also a pennant year. Alou joined the 200-hit circle last season.

Nelson Briles, 6-7 who relieved starter Jerry Reuss after he pitched to three batters in the ninth, was credited with the victory.

Grant, the fourth Pirate pitcher, was charged with the loss. He is 2-1.

Reuss, who beat the Pirates 6-1 earlier in the season, walked only one batter until the ninth when he developed a wild streak.

"Then I started aiming the ball, and lost my poise a little," Reuss confessed.

"if he ever gets a little better control of his curve, he's going to make a heck of a pitcher - and I'm not sayin he's bad now," said Pirate coach Bill Verdon.

Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh continued to decline to discuss his pitching beyond Saturday's first division playoff game with Cincinnati. Dock Ellis, who has drawn that starting assignemtn, was used only as a pinch runner Wednesday night.

Steve Blass, 10-12, of the Pirates and Mike Torrez, 8-10, of the St. Louis were chosen to start in tonight's series and season-ending game in Busch Stadium.

Chiefs Fined $5,000

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A St. Louis sportscater says the Kansas City Chiefs have been fined $5,000 by the NationalFootball League for an incident that occurred during the exhibition game with the Cardinals in St. Louis Sept. 12.

Ed McCauley, sports director of KTVI-TV, said in his Wednesday night sportscast that a Chiefs player ejected from the game re-entered wearing a teammate's jersey St. Louis won the game 34-24.

Jack Steadman, general manager of the Chiefs, said when contacted in Kansas City that any comment would have to come from NFL headquarters in New York.

McCauley said a St Louis fan who did not wish to be identified reported the incident to NFL Commissioner PeteRozelle.

Rockey Rosema of the Cardinals and reserve Guard George Daney of the Chiefs were ejected.

McCauley said the fan reported seeing Daney remove his jersey, pul' on the jersey of Bobby Hughes of the Chiefs' taxi squad and go back into the game with the specialty squad several times.

The fan, McCauley said, got a note back from Rozelle along with a copy of a letter addressed to Steadman.

According to MaCauley, the letter said the fan's report had been confirmed and the Chiefs were being fined.

McCauley said the amount of the fine was not stated in the letter, but it was reported through another source to be $5,000.

Charleston Moves Up In State Ratings

Charleston high jumped to third in the 3A state football ratings as conducted by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association while Cape Girardeau Central tumbled to 10th in 4A and Malden fell to fifth in 2A.

Dexter and East Prairie failed to repeat among the top 10 this week. The Eagles are one of three undefeated teams remaining in the Southeast Missouri district.

A number of changes were observed in this week's ratings because last week was "upset" week around the state in prep football action.

Chillicothe, with a 22 game winning streak and impressive 40-6 victory over Kansas City central, remains the top team in the 3A class while South Shelby took over sole possession in 2A and Independence St. Mary's remained tops in A. St. Louis Riverview Gardens took over first in the 4A ratings, which took on an almost entirely new look.

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. — Junior tailback Brian Bream of San Leandro, Calif., tied an Air Force Academy football record in the 37-14 victory over Missouri on Sept. 26 when he carried the ball 26 times, equaling the mark first set by Terry Isaacson in 1961.

Ken Boyer Named To Card Staff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals filled one of two vacancies Wednesday on their 1971 coaching staff, naming 15-season major leaguer Ken Boyer as successor to hitting coach Dick Sisler, fired a day earlier.

Boyer, who began his major league career with the Cardinals, was traded to theNew York Mets after the 1965 season and later played for the Chicago White Sox and Los Angeles Dodgers.

He retired after the 1969 season and rejoined the Cardinal system as manager of Arkansas in the Texas League guiding the team to a second-place finish.

A native of Liberty, Mo., he and his family now live in Hermann, Mo. Boyer, 39, played in 10 All-Star games as a Cardinal and was named the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1964.

POLLY'S POINTERS

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mrs. J. D. B. that no dye of any kind will lighten her synthetic wig. I am a professional beauty operator who had a synthetic wig and found that nothing would penetrate the shafts of the synthetic hairs. There is a product available to beauticians that will lighten or darken human hair wigs. I am sorry to discourage Mrs. J. D. B. but I, personally, have tried for weeks to successfully change the color of a synthetic wig.—MARGARET

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. J. D. B.—I darkened a synthetic hair piece to match my auburn hair by using a commercial dye, such as used on clothes. I did not even rinse but blotted the wig dry. It shines like before the dye job. I think one could lighten a wig the same way by using the product that removes color before dyeing and then dye again if need be.—MRS. W. J. B.

DEAR GIRLS—The professionals I talked with say such dyeing cannot be done successfully. But Mrs. W. J. B.'s letter states that she did it.

One person I called said it could be TRIED by dyeing as one would a nylon garment but it is not recommended and should be done knowing it is a great risk and there is a chance of having a ruined wig. If one is of the venturesome type and has a wig that is of no use as it is, this could be tried, but remember it is a gamble. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY—The center of a two-piece angel food cake pan makes a good wig stand.—S. E. H.

DEAR POLLY—When the carpet was laid in a new church in our town, some of the men saved the leftover strips and glued them in the bottoms of the hymn book holders, thus preventing that ugly noise when the books are returned to these holders. —MRS. C. P.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Trouble with our coal furnace caused rusty water to drain on the basement floor. I tried using detergents to remove these stains but they do not rub out. Does anyone know how I could do this?—MRS. C. S.

Share your favorite homemaking ideas.. and send them to her in care of The Daily Sikeston Standard. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your idea in Polly's Pointers.

Owners of Building Appeal Cape Fine

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Owners of the condemned Idan-Ha Hotel building, Broadway and North Fountain, have filed with the city an appeal from the $100- per- day fine assessed by Building Supervisor Gerald H. Johnson at a hearing Sept. 11.

Johnson, who acts as judge in city condemnation proceedings, handed down the judgment after finding the owners, trustees of the Montgomery Trust of Sikeston, failed to comply with a previous city order to repair or demolish the burned- out structure within a specified time.

The hotel was destroyed by fire in June 1968 and has remained in a dilapidated condition since that time. The Montgomery Trust purchased the property after the fire.

As basis for the appeal, the owners claim the building supervisor erred in finding conditions existed as described by the buiding inspector, Harry C. Sachse, at a previous hearing and erred in finding the building was dangerous within the meaning of the city ordinance.

The appeal alleges provisions of this city ordinance are in violation of Missouri and United States Constitutions as it deprives the defendants of their property without due process of law and denies them equal protection of the law.

It claims the order of the building supervisor was not supported by competent evidence at the hearing and the finding is unjust, unconscionable, arbitrary and discriminates against the defendants. It contends the order should be vacated and reversed.

Legal notice of the dangerous condition of the site was first served on the present owners in March. Included were orders to repair or demolish the structure.

When the owners failed to take action within the set time, the city held a hearing April 30 at which time the owners were given 120 days to put the building into a state to meet standards of a city ordinance, again by repair or demolition. This time expired at the end of August and the Sept. 11 hearing was set.

Johnson, at the latter hearing, found the owners had not complied with the order and had not sought the 60- day extension available through posting of a performance bond.

The fine is to run for each day the owners fail to comply with the order to repair or demolish the structure.

Pilot Plan to Train Doctors In Six Years

KANSAS CITY (AP)—On their first day as college freshmen this fall, 13 men and two women selected as prospective medical students saw their first patients.

Before the school year is out, the 17- and 18-year-old students are expected to witness their first autopsy, be introduced to some details of X-ray examinations, and visit a pathology laboratory for scrutiny of a heart and liver.

The 15 are enrolled at the University of Missouri - Kansas City for a new study program designed to turn out medical doctors in six years instead of eight.

Medical students traditionally do not see patients until after they have been graduated from college and are in their third year of medical school. Some university medical schools have developed six-year programs, but students generally do not see patients until the third year.

Until the University of Missouri's new medical school begins functioning—building funds have been provided by state and federal appropriations and a bond election — the introductory medical course is offered as an elective, taught by two professors whose salaries are drawn from private gifts.

"This program has tremendous potential," said Dr. Nathaniel Winer, in charge of interns, residents and post-graduate education at Menorah Medical Center. "If the rest goest as well as the first week, this could set a pattern of medical education throughout the country."

"Introduction to Medicine," a 4 1/2-hour course, is designed to allow the students to examine patients on Mondays and discuss symptoms and diagnoses with their professors on Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

The students also will carry 12 hours of basic college courses for freshmen.

They will be involved in the medical program year round. Dividing their summer between courses such as anatomy, physiology and biochemistry and the practical training offered by such roles as X-ray and emergency room assistants and orderlies.

The plan provides for those completing the two years satisfactorily to enter the first year medical school program and eventually graduate with a combined A.B.-M.D. degree four years later.

Farm Land For Rent Hard to Find

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was a time in the days of horse drawn plows when a farmer stood a chance of renting some extra land from his neighbor, perhaps to grow an extra 20 acres of corn or another patch of cotton.

Now, the experts say, active farm operators not only use every acre they own or rent but continually scour around for more to lease. Virtually no farmer rents out his back forty to a neighbor.

A report issued Friday by the Economic Research Service provides some dated but still valid figures on where farmers look for extra land and how they arrange to pay for it.

"With the increasing pressures to expand farm operations," the report said, "farmers tend to operate all the land they own and tend not to rent land to other farmers."

In 1964—the latest year for complete figures—89 per cent of all rented farm land was leased from landlords who did not farm themselves. This compared with 81 per cent in 1949.

Perhaps the most significant change in the last few decades has been a drift away from the historic practice of renting land as a stepping stone to full ownership.

At one time it was common for a young farmer to rent land with the objective of saving his money and buying out the landlord some day.

Recently, however, the report said, the practice has been for a farmer to buy some land, use it as a base of operations and then rent additional acreage to meet his production goals.

Part of the reason for the "part-ownership" trend is that land costs have risen so much over the past 30 years that if a farmer could afford to buy an extra half section outright he might not have enough left to buy the additional machinery to operate it.

The 1964 study showed 392 million acres of farm land—about 36 per cent of the national total—were rented, compared with 33 per cent in 1949. In the late 1930s, the report noted, about 44 per cent of all farm land was rented.

Man Dies After 77 Glasses of Beer

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — A man trying to set a world beer drinking record has died after downing 77 glasses.

Jack Manakau, 33, aimed at setting the record on Saturday but collapsed and later was found dead in his car.

NEW YORK — If anything is more likely to rise than taxes it appears to be payroll fringe benefits, as they are called. Experience in the past 20 years shows that taxes don't always rise annually. But the record shows benefits do.

In fact, so large a portion of payrolls consists of indirect payments that the word "fringe" has become a misnomer and the word "benefit" is beginning to sound as dated as corporate paternalism.

The latest survey of the situation by the National Chamber of Commerce shows that benefits now average 27.9 per cent of employer payrolls. which is to say that more than a quarter of your income may not show up in your paycheck.

The sharp contrasts from one company to another in the amount of such compensations make salary comparisons almost meaningless these days, and often disguise tremendous advantages and disadvantages in certain companies.

Many couples who wonder why their neighbor seems to do so much better on the same salary, for example, may find the answer lies in a free company car, pension, life and health insurance, profit-sharing, bonuses, product discounts, free eduation and so on.

The Chamber survey, which is made once every two years and involves more than 1,000 companies, shows such payments through 1969 were up 330 per cent in 20 years, and 19 per cent since the previous survey year of 1967.

In 1949, the companies involved reported they paid $477 in benefits per worker. In 1969, this figure had risen to $2,052 for each employe.

The biggest increase, as might be expected, was in Social Security contributions which, being legislated, have little to do directly with corporate generosity. In 1949, the tab to companies was $27 a worker; in 1969, the figure was $335, a 1,141 per cent rise.

Unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation, also legislated, were up substantially, but some of the biggest increases were in pensions,insurance, vacations and other voluntary arrangements.

Some of the increases may be attributed to the long and strong economic surge of the 1960s that forced companies to compete more imaginatively for skilled workers, but that tells only part of the story.

Collective bargaining has a great deal to do with the rise. So has the growing recognition of workers that, as a social unit, their company can supply many services, such as insurance, that could not be afforded separately.

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

Generally speaking, the teacher shortage, which has been vary critical over the past several years, is easing up. Except that is, there is still a need for teachers and educational personnel in certain subject matter fields or areas.

There is a shortage in: vocational- technical; early childhood education; education for the mentally and physically handicapped and teachers who are adequately prepared to work with children in urban and rural poverty area schools, are in short supply. It is said that these latter teachers are too often "emotionally unprepared and academically untrained to work effectively with youngsters in these communities."

The U.S. Office of Education has made some money available to train for local school positions, persons from the community who are not currently involved in education but who seem to have the potential to become good teachers for these disadvantaged children.

In this school system, we seem to have the most difficulty in finding qualified teachers to fill positions in special education, that is working with children who are handicapped in certain areas; speech; counselors and possibly science-mathematics.

Our biggest problem in attracting teachers in any field is, of course, the fact that in common with many Southeast Missouri schools, we simply do not have enough salary money to compete with those school districts who are financially better off.

Classes will be dismissed Friday, October 2, in order that teachers may engage in an In-Service Workshop, planned to improve instruction and other educational services.

At the elementary level, according to Bob Miller, director of that program, workshop activities are centered on: basic subject areas; instruction geared to meet needs; encouraging creativity; penmanship and progress reporting procedures. Resource persons, other than the faculty, who will assist are: Earl Boucher, Leland Smith and T. M. Travelstead. These men represent various textbook companies and are specialists in subject matter areas.

At the Middle School and secondary level, Ernest Elledge, Middle School Principal and Senior High Principal, Roger Sherman, have, with faculty members, planned discussion sessions to include classroom management, student control and involvement and student-teacher communications as well as discussions devoted to subject matter or other special problems. Dr. Greg Dickey, Professor of Education and Psychology at Southeast Missouri State College, will speak to the group during the workshop.

Two other one- day in-service training workshops are scheduled on the school calendar. The exact dates will be announced as plans for these meetings are completed. The workshops are outside the regular 180- day schedule when students are in attendance during the term.

To add to our financial woes, we and a lot of other schools are running into insurance problems. possibly because of vandalism, student unrest, riots and similar troubles that have reportedly caused insurance losses, insurance rates have been drastically increased, coverages reduced and in a few instances, some policies cancelled all together. While our insurance record has been extremely good, we are still affected by the general increase in rates and coverages resulting from higher losses.

We have been informed by our insurors that we must now reschedule our insurance with a $15,000 deductible clause on all items except at the Field House and Middle School which must have a $25,000 deduction, if we are to maintain our insurance program within the limits of our reduced budget. There will, in fact, be some reduction of premium with these coverages, but we would point out that most of our losses are within the $100- 200- 300 range. Only the possibility of a major loss to buildings and facilities would seem to justify any insurance coverage at all, but with this possibility the Board has little choice but to maintain a program which will at least protect the district to that extent.

The Board has appointed an insurance committee made up of representatives of local agencies which we feel do an excellent job in trying to recommend the best insurance progrm that we can afford.

It is an interesting fact that educational research indicates that boys score higher than girls on national aptitude tests but they get lower grades from teachers. The reason for this has not been definitely established, although one researcher concludes that "there is an apparent bias in favor of the girls" by the teachers. We don't care to comment on that one.

The idealism of our youth is pretty well indicated by the following. In a nationwide survey made by Purdue University, 91% of high school students who were polled, said that they would be willing to defer their personal interest for a year, giving this year to the nation if they were asked to do so in order to help some of the nation's problems. Proverty and pollution headed the list of the problems which they thought were uppermost.

The increased enrollment and budget squeeze has caused at least one St. Louis County suburban school to go to a 12-month schedule.

Over a five- year- period, the Francis Howell school district will put elementary and junior high school students on a year-round schedule over a five- year period. They will attend classes for nine weeks, followed by three weeks of vacation on a rotating schedule. High school students will follow a conventional schedule of nine months school.

The results of this change will be interesting. We suspect that if parents are willing to consider the change on its merits, that the teachers and students will make it work, likely with more effective use of the school tax dollar.

Battle Arises Over School Clothing Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is locked in battle with an organization of welfare mothers over a new regulation limiting federal education aid to clothe poor children.

The militant National Welfare Rights Organization — NWRO — has appealed directly to Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson for more clothing aid. He promised to answer early next week.

At issue is a Sept. 15 Office of Education directive freezing at a last year's level — three-tenths of one per cent of the total — clothing allowances from the $1.5 billion elementary school aid fund.

Most of the 16,500 school districts receiving aid for disadvantaged school children do not use any of the so-called Title I money for clothing programs. The new order, in effect, prohibits them from starting.

The freeze comes at a time when local NWRO chapters are pressing Title I districts without clothing provisions to include them.

Terrel H. Bell, acting commissioner of education took note of the new clothing demands in the Sept. 15 order, saying, ''In a number of states project applications are being received involving greatly increased expenditure of Title I funds for clothing, which if approved, would jeopardize the basic nature of the Title I program. Title I is an education, not a welfare program."

George A. Wiley, NWRO executive director argues, however, "that adequate school clothing is an educational need of the highest priority."

"Children cannot learn if they are not in school," he said. "Without adequate shoes and clothing, many poor kids will not go to school. Other children in ragged clothing will be defeated by the self-image that is radiated in the faces of their more affluent classmates."

Richardson said in an interview he intends to allow districts without clothing programs to begin.

SHRIMP BOATS may be on the way out. Oldtimer examines lightweight metal traps which promise to replace expensive trawlers and nets for catching shrimp. Traps are light enough for small boats and can be lowered into the ocean by one man. Key to design is aluminized steel fabric that resists rust and corrosion in salt water. Unique material, made by Armco, also is used for animal cages and coops.

Gals Like Mix-Match Canisters

Chicago (NFS) — Canisters aren't for everybody! At least, that's how some homemakers feel about those traditional kitchen container sets wherein each size is boldly labeled to indicate its contents.

"Many women prefer the 'blind' canisters that don't dictate what you must put into them," reports Mrs. Pauline Church, home service advisor for a leading housewares manufacturer.

"But even these leave something wanting when their capacities don't coincide with your particular storage needs," she added.

SO NOW there's a better idea: Colorful plastic containers in five different sizes that can be mixed, matched, or mated on an "open stock" basis.

Call Apolloware and made by the Republic Molding Corporation, Chicago, these new round containers have trim white lids that lock with a twist to provide airtight storage for anything from baking supplies to snack crackers.

Dishwasher-safe and designed to stack neatly, Apolloware containers are available in the following sizes: 17-oz. at 49 cents, 30-oz. for 59 cents, 48-oz. for 89 cents, 72-oz. for $1.19, and 105-oz. for $1.39. All are to be found in housewares, hardware, and department stores.

World Food Output Ends Gain Streak

ROME AP) — For the first time in 12 years, there was no increase in the combined output of the world's farms and fisheries in 1969 while population continued to soar.

This standstill in over-all food production was due largely to reduced output in the developed countries "where surpluses rather than shortages are the problem," the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization—FAO reported Thursday.

In terms of food per person, this meant less to eat in almost all of the underdeveloped regions of the world, where population is shooting up by 2.7 per cent a year.

FAO's annual survey of the state of food and agriculture compared virtual stagnation of over-all world food production in 1969 to an increase of 4 per cent in 1968 and a 10-year average increase of almost 3 per cent.

Agriculture proper showed a very small gain in production last year, but fisheries output fell 3 per cent, FAO reported.

It was the first time since 1950 that world fish production suffered a setback. Output was down only 1 per cent in the developed countrues but dropped by 5 per cent in under developed countries where it was needed most.

FAO reported that the situation was brightest in the Far East where the food problem in the past has been most serious.

A 4 per cent increase in food production among the underdeveloped nations there was still 7 per cent below the 1968 gain, but exceeded the 10 year rate of 2.6 per cent.

Those figures exclude Communist China, on which no statistics were available, and Japan, which is considered a developed nation.

India, whose teeming population often faces severe hunger, again had a solid 5 per cent increase in food production, FAO said.

In Latin America a slight over-all increase of 1 per cent in food production, after another season of severe drought, again fell far behind the region's 2.9 per cent population increas.

Food production in the Middle East showed no increase. In Africa, excluding South Africa, production even fell by about 1 per cent.

Nixon Orders Draft Pool Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon ordered Wednesday a three-month extension of the draft liability of men who enter the 1970 draft pool with lottery numbers already reached by their local boards.

The Selective Service System, announcing Nixon's executive order, said it would affect only "relatively small numbers of registrants."

Men with numbers not called during 1970—boards throughout the nation have been limited to numbers no higher than 195 so far—will, as previously planned, move into a lower priority in 1971. Today's order does not affect them.

It does, however, affect any man who loses a deferment or exemption and becomes 1-A during 1970, after his local board has called lottery numbers as high as the one he holds.

Many boards have already gone back to calling lower numbers as former students and others with low numbers became available.

Without Nixon's order, a man entering the pool late, with a number between the highest one previously reached and the ones currently being called, might have escaped the draft this year.

That would have foiled one of the main aims of the lottery system instituted last December— to call men by the numbers, insuring fairness to all.

Nixon now has ordered that such men will be given top priority for draft cails during the first three months of 1971.

If any remain undrafted by that time, they will join their 1970 colleagues in the secondpriority pool, leaving first priority to the new "prime" group which was assigned lottery numbers last July 1.

But draft spokesmen sayd they do not expect to have enough "in-between" men to fill three months of draft calls, much less have any left over.

Four Injured

Three were injured in a two-car collision Wednesday at 6:20 p.m. on highway 153, one mile south of Hunterville, when a northbound 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Finley Kuykendall, 69, Essex, attempted a left turn in front of a 1970 Chrysler, driven by Wanda Craig, 16, Essex, the state patrol reported.

The two vehicles struck almost headon.

Kuykendall received a head injury and cuts on his face. A passenger in his car, Willie Tyler, Essex, received injury to a leg, shoulder and head.

Wednesday at 2:15 p.m. at the intersection of highways 60 and 61, at the south city limits of Sikeston, James Plunk, 40, Morehouse, driver of a 1963 Chevrolet, was injured.

A 1963 southbound Chevrolet tractor trailer, driven by B. K. Surface, 43, Bertrand, made a left turn on highway 60 into the path of the Plunk car, the patrol said.

Hearing Will Be Set For Noranda Suit

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A date for a hearing into a petition asking for damages in the amount of $450,000 plus $30,000 per day from the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and its Local 618 at Sikeston will be set by U.S. District Judge James H. Meredith when Federal court convenes Friday.

The suit has been filed by a St. Louis attorney for Noranda Aluminum Co., Inc., which is engaged in the construction of a multimillion dollar aluminum reduction plant and rod and wire mill in New Madrid's St. Jude Industrial Park.

The company alleges that the union and its local have, since mid- summer, engaged in "planned programs of walking off, remaining away from, striking and picketing work" at the construction site.

The Rader and Grimm law firm of Cape Girardeau represents the defendants in the suit, filed Aug. 12, in the Eastern District of U.S. Court. It is filed as a violation of the Labor Management Relations Act of 1947.

Specifically, the suit says the plaintiff (Noranda) and the City of New Madrid, have suffered injuries to their business 'in an amount exceedig $30,000 per day and will continue to suffer such injury for each and every day the said unlawful and wrongful acts of the defendants continue."

The company alleges that "the defendants, carpenters, by their officers, agents and representatives, commencing on or about July 30, 1970, and at all times thereafter" assigned the work of installing rock and pinion gates and dry material handling chutes "to employes represented by defendants rather than to employes working as members of another labor organization,..." and "... engaged, induced and encouraged individuals employed as millwrights to engage in a strike..."

It further states that union members refused to "use, transport, or otherwise handle or work" on any goods or materials, "or to perform any services, and have threatened, coerced and restrained plaintiff, its officers, agents and representatives."

Noranda claims the strikes have taken place since about July 30 of this year, causing "total disruption of the construction completion schedule projected and planned."

The suit is asking for the $30,000 per day in damages for each day of walk-offs or striking since Aug. 13, the day after the suit was filed.

GAMAL ABDEL NASSER

Cape Girardeau County Route F Project Approved

The Missouri state highway commission approved the recommended location and preliminary design details for route F, Cape Girardeau county. The improvements begins at the present terminus of route F, north of Tilsit, and proceeds along or near the present county road north and east for approximately 4.3 miles, intersecting Route PP approximately 1.0 mile south of Route 34.

The commission determined the recommended location and preliminary design details would best serve the interests of the public after considering the favorable and adverse economic, social, and environmental effects of the location and design.

W. H. Shaw, district engineer for the Department, indicated finalized design would now proceed, followed by acquisition of right-of-way with construction to follow, subject to availability of funds.

He pointed out that the proposed improvement to Route F is a "take over" road and the necessary right-of-way is to be guaranteed by the Cape Girardeau county court.

Big Surplus of Unwanted Pets Reported in U.S.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The United States is faced with a tremendous surplus of unwanted dogs and cats, the American Humane Association was told Sunday.

Thomas C. Justice, association president, announced at the start of the 94th annual meeting that a non-surgical method of pet population control will be the goal of a study to be supported by the association.

Justice said the association will make a substantial grant, through the Morris Animal Foudation, to Colorado State University to advance studies for control of reporduction of dogs.

Justice said the need for finding an alternative to surgical control of animal population was due to expense and opwner opposition.

Oldest Tree Food

Walnuts are the oldest known tree food used by man. Shells of walnuts were found in the Swiss Lake dwellings of Neolithic man, dating from about 7000 B.C., with his bones and the bones of the animals he snared for food.

Ky's Absence Restrains 'March for Victory'

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON — A "March for Victory" (in Viet Nam) rally, organized by the Rev. Carl McIntire, will be held in Washington Saturday.

Inside the Rev. Mr. McIntire resides the spirit of a public relations genius. It was he who organized the first "March for Victory" in Washington last April 4, with Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia as principal speaker. And it was McIntire's idea to organize a second march on Oct. 3, with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Cao Ky as the featured attraction.

Ky's no doubt reluctant decision "to postpone" his trip to the United States distressed McIntire and delighted federal officials. "We are witnessing a monstrous conspiracy reaching up to the very top levels of government and involving one of our biggest television networks," McIntire said on being informed of Ky's Sept. 27 announcement on CBS- TV's "Face the Nation." There was a danger of a confrontation between pro- war and antiwar forces if Ky had appeared as scheduled. But the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression has canceled plans to mount a counter- demonstration. "We wouldn't dignify McIntire's thing by protesting it," said William Douthard, a coalition spokesman.

All the will- he- or- won't- he stories about Ky's involvement in the rally gave McIntire the kind of publicity that money can't buy. On the other hand, David Braaten of the Washington Evening Star suggested, tongue in cheek, that the invitation to Ky represented a confession of weakness on the part of ultra-conservatives. "It is humiliating indeed," he wrote, "when a great nation has to concede before the world that its homegrown fanatics are not of high enough quality to assure a respectable turnout of superpatriots at a pro- war rally."

McIntire has an uncanny facility for dramatizing himself and the various right- wig causes he espouses. Last year, for example, he stood on the steps of Riverside Church in New York City to read a manifesto demanding $3 billion in "reparations" from the established churches he claimed were destroying Christianity. Several months earlier, National Black Economic Development Conference Director James Forman had mounted the pulpit of the same church to demand that white churches pay reparations to Negroes.

McIntire, 64, was similarly inspired by the 1969 U.S. tour of Bernadette Devlin, spokesman for Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland. Shortly after Miss Devlin returned home, McIntire persuaded the Rev. Ian Paisley, leader of Ulster's militantly conservative Protestants, to visit this country.

The McIntire message of political and religious fundamentalism is broadcast five days a week by the 600- odd radio stations that carry his Twentieth Century Reformation Hour. However, the Federal Communications Commission has denied renewal of the licenses of WXUR AND WXUR FM, Media, Pa., which are owned by an organization of which McIntire is board chairman. The stations' programing has been criticized as "anti- Negro, anti- Semitic, and anti- Catholic."

The April march for victory attracted many more participants than had been expected-- between 10,000 and 50,000, according to estimates. McIntire contends the crowd numbered 100,000. His prediction of a 500,000 turnout on Oct. 3 may have to be scaled down now that Ky has bowed out.

The smaller the turnout the better, reasons the District of Columbia government. Demonstrations cost money, and the city has none to spare. It is still waiting to be paid in full for the security and clean-up services it provided on Honor America Day last July 4.

There are approximately 18,000 species of marine and freshwater algae, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Corner on Questions

QUESTION: DO THE REVOLUTIONARY YOUNGSTERS HAVE A POINT? ANSWER: A friends daughter, married to a "hippy" member of a college art faculty, compelled a 120 mile trip. The Bible teaches: "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should bring forth fruit."

Clad in rebellious garments, the daughter "demon"- strated revolutionary character dedicated to deeds of destruction. Aside from grotesque art, the walls were ornamented with a deflated balloon scotch-taped between the paintings, and an imposing amateurish photograph of King Kong freely ravaging humanity. Cat filfth and unkempt housekeeping minimized the rags called furniture. Little time was required to discern that this well-paid couple was using poverty to argue against the "establishement." Perhaps ignorantly, but this couple engaged their resources for the destruction of the U.S. Communism. Beware of the immaturity which describes good guys as bad and themselves as good. God says: "The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it?"

While testifying of Christ who said: "I am the way, the truth, and the life; no man cometh unto the Father but by Me," she defensively interrupted by correcting the conversation to parallel the warped ideology of "women's liberation." Apparently, she bolstered her inferiorities by obnoxious control of one who wished to help. This impolite, unteachable, egotistical youngster rejected Jesus Christ being unwilling to subject herself to her husband; she willfully chose Hell rather than to become a second class citizen as she said. Doubtless, this girl would consider her "hippy" husband more Christlike than Christ who said to the first woman: "Thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee."

No matter whose daughter it is, God says: "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under Heaven given among men, whereby we MUST be saved." Choose Christ now!

Color Tube Wins Award

ST. LOUIS — The "new generation" television color picture tube, developed by Zenith Radio Corp.'s Rauland division, has been named one of the 100 most significant new products of the year in the annual "IR-100" new products competition sponsored by Industrial Research Inc.

Zenith's "Chromacolor" television picture tube was the only consumer electronics product selected by the panel of judges for top recognition. The patented color picture tube development was first offered in the 23- inch (diagonal) screen size in the company's 1970 line. The Chromacolor development is now offered in 25- inch and 19- inch (Diagonal) screen sizes.

How It Was Named

Consumer Arm In Government Goes Forward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation designed to give the nation's consumers influence inside the federal government has been approved by a Senate panel.

In its final form, the measure was short of what some consumers groups had wanted, but it is still likely to provoke a fight on the Senate floor.

The compromise bill approved Monday by the Senate Government Operations Committee would create a White House Council of Consumer Advisors as a policy-making body for a new and independent consumer protection agency.

"For the first time in the history of the country, the consumer will have both a voice and an advocate in the government," said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff D-Conn., chairman of the Government Operations subcommittee which wrote the bill.

Ribicoff said the government advocacy would likely prod regulatory agencies, such as the Federal Trade Commission, into actions to protect consumers which, he said, they have been reluctant to undertake in the past.

Ribicoff said that a bill allowing individual consumers to sue in federal court was hopelessly bottled in the Senate's Judiciary Committee making the work for a new fraud division moot at this time.

A committee amendment by Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., would require the new consumer agency to protect industrial trade secrets and another sponsored by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., would forbid it from making any disclosures or statements rating one product as better than another.

But Ribicoff said the consumer agency, if written into law, will for the first time give the individual citizen the power that he charged influential industrial and commercial groups have often usurped before regulatory agencies.

New Procedure May Cut Plea Bargaining Abuses

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Judicial authorities have deep reservations about plea bargaining, but it has become a daily ritual in overcrowded criminal courts across the nation. Lawyers and prosecutors regularly hammer out "deals" in which the defendant is offered a reduced charge if he agrees to plead quilty. Thus, a man charged with armed robbery might plead quilty to unarmed robbery or attempted robbery and draw a sentence of a few months instead of 20 years. The right to trial by jury is waived.

The negotiations are extra-legal, sometimes conducted in frenetic whispers in the courtroom and sometimes through the bars of a jail. In Washington, D. C., the General Sessions Board of Judges recently approved an experiment in which the negotiations would be conducted openly, before a judge. The new procedure will begin on Thursday and continue for four months. If it proves successful in the Court of General Sessions it may be retained and extended to felony cases at U.S. District Court.

Pleas bargaining is symptomatic of a deeper malaise in federal and state courts. The judicial system is overwhelmed with work. When court dockets become burdened with too many cases, prosecutors come under enormous pressure to dispose of them as quickly as possible. Deals with the defendant are an easy way to speed up the court's business but they raise the question of whether justice is being sacrificed to expediency. Leonard Downie, Jr., wrote in the Washington Monthly "Everyone in the system, including the judge and the defendant's own layer, offers inducement or exerts pressure for a guilty plea to save the time and trouble of a trial."

New procedures, like those being instituted in Washington, may help to remove the abuses of plea bargaining. But it is widely argued that it is too late for ad hoc improvements. What's necessary, many authorities insist, is a thorough, fundamental reform of the entire judicial system.

NEW YORK (AP) — Proper treatment of thyroid deficiency, or hypothyroidism, can prevent premature heart attacks in people suffering from a lack of thyroid hormones. It can also increase the life span of past victims of coronary disease, a report to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology has revealed.

The scientific study of 725 men and 844 women with hypothyroidism showed that only four new cases of heart disease developed instead of the expected 72.

We're proud to have had a part in helping to build the new Kingsway Plaza Shopping Mall. Our Congratulations to them on their Grand Opening and our wish for much Success. "Thank You" for helping Southeast Missouri area to grow.

Chrysler Sets Smallest Hike In Car Prices

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has announced average price hikes for its 1971 model cars of $104 or 3.7 per cent, giving it the lowest increase among the industry's Big Three.

The nation's No. 3 automaker said Tuesday its suggested manufacturer's retail prices would have gone up an average of $147 or 4.5 per cent if it had not slashed dealer profit margins on some models.

The automaker said increasing material and labor costs "could cause price revisions of all its 1971 cars."

The United Auto Workers union is striking GM over a new labor contract. When one is agreed to, the UAW plans to take it to other automakers for matching.

The 16th amendment, which went into effect in 1913, gave Congress the authority to levy an income tax.

By KURT LASSEN

Talk about the generation gap! Helena Kallianiotes is an expert on the subject. The actress, who is attracting wide attention in her debut performance in "Five Easy Pieces," has a story that sounds like a movie script.

"When I graduated high school my father wanted to take me back to our native village in Greece where he had a husband all picked out for me. I had come to America when I was ten and my ideas on life were different. I didn't want to marry a boy I had never even seen, so just before we sailed I jumped ship and went on my own."

Helena did the only thing she really felt she could do. She became a dancer leaning on her experience in the native Greek dances. "I did the native dances in costume, mostly at Greek clubs around Boston and then I went to California," she told us.

Helena, having lived with a difficult name all of her life didn't come off much better in her film name. She plays opposite Jack Nicholson with the unlikely name of Palm Apodaca. As a girl who hitches a ride with Nicholson and Karen Black she plays the part of a compulsive talker on the subject of pollution, filth and dirt and is on her way to Alaska where she has heard everything is beautiful and clean.

Because she could dance skating came easy to her. "Only," she said almost apologetically, "it was roller skating. I raced on skates and did both single and double figure skating. Roller skating," she explained, "doesn't have the class that figure skating on ice does, but it, too, helped me make a living."

When she went to California she again turned to dancing for a living. "I also decided I'd try to learn something about acting. I went to classes once a week for a whole year and then did some small things in stock companies, but my looks seemed to be against me in getting anywhere with it."

Helena's looks are dark, Greek and intense. There's a sadness about her eyes and, as she pointed out, any future in acting would require a very special part. "I'm not the glamour girl type."

Helena Kallianiotes

"Easy Rider" and saw and talked to Helena three times before casting her for the part.

"Now that the film has been seen at some film festivals and screenings and is in release, lots of things are happening for me," Helena said. "I've been sent any number of scripts and producers and directors are calling me to talk about parts in other films.

"I never thought one part could cause so much action," she said. "As a matter of fact when they shot it I thought it would be one very small bit and that most of it would end up on the cutting room floor. When I finally saw the film I was surprised at how much they had left in.

"Lots of people have asked if the lines were improvised. They weren't. I spent a lot of time with them and I used them exactly as they were written. I was lucky to get a part that attracts so much attention for my first role."

Lucky or not there is little doubt that Helena Kallioniotes is a girl people are going to be seeing in films. Her name may sound like an unlikely one for a star, but her performance leaves no doubt that she has the acting ability to reach movie stardom.

She hasn't seen her father since that day she jumped ship. "We were just from different worlds," she said wistfully. "Our family life as children was very hard. I worked all the time after school to get together the money for a trip I didn't want to take."

Now Helena will be able to choose the time and place for herself.

If You Were the Judge

Confession Induced By Gun Extortion

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Al and Ruby were fast friends, but Ruby was a little faster than even Al thought he was. Coming home late one night, Al spotted Ruby pussy- footing out of his wife's boudoir and, grabbing a pistola from a nearby drawer, he ordered his erstwhile crony back into the bedroom. There, Al demanded that Ruby sign a confession that he had been romancing his wife. With the gun pointing straight at his perspiring forehead, Ruby signed the confession with alacrity. The next day, however, he had Al arrested and charged with extortion.

"He made me sign that confession against my will," complained Ruby in court. "If I hadn't signed it, he would have blasted me."

"The guy's got more nerve than brains," was Al's answer. "Here the guy's been having an affair with my wife and he has me arrested like I was the bad guy. I'm not guilty of extortion, I'm guilty of having no brains. I should have shot him when I had the chance."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Al of extortion?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that like any other red -blooded man, he could not acquiesce in a man taking advantage of another man's wife. But, he added, compelling a person to do an act against his willby force constitutes the crime charged. Thus, Al was guilty of extortion.

Dali Collector Wants To Open Museum

By Betty Dietz Krebs
Dayton Daily News
Written for the Associated Press

The 55-year-old outspoken Morse had it in mind to build a museum to house his collection, but then Congress passed Tax Reform Act 91172, which prevents such a museum being opened as a public foundation by a private collector.

"I'd end up in jail with a $10,000 fine for being a self-dealing foundation manager," he says.

If Morse sounds angry, it's because he is.

"The law's a kiss of death for private philanthropy — all because of some hankypanky on the part of the big foundations. That law's a fantastic indictment of how to kill the goose that laid the golden egg," he said in a recent interview.

The answer, as he sees it, is to open a Dali museum as a division of his IMS Co., which manufactures machinery. Hopefully, the museum will open early in 1971.

Morse says that in an era "when everybody else is producing junk," Dali hangs on to his artistic integrity. He admires the Spanish artist's "probity of esthetic ideals" and characterizes his style as "paranoic classical."

Dali never has been to Cleveland to visit the Morses, probably the country's leading collectors of his work.

"Frankly I don't want him to come," Morse said. "Every nut in the country would be here."

The Clevelander and his wife — who has translated some of Dali's writings — stay clear of the "Dali court" of admirers.

Morse first met the artist in 1943, in the bar of a New York hotel. Today he owns 87 Dali paintings, some 400 graphics and about 150 drawings. That represents about 10 per cent of the artist's total output.

The largest painting — a 13-foot oil titled "Hallucinogenic Toreador," and reportedly valued at about $300,000 — is still unfinished. But preparations are current for its completion.

An experienced collector, Morse has an advantage over a novice entering the art market. But he has had to watch his step.

"I've had four fakes," said Morse. He felt uneasy about them.

"So I stuck them under Dali's nose. He was sick in bed with a bad knee.

"I told him to put his glasses on and take a good look. The paintings were signed and they looked pretty authentic."

The artist studied the paintings carefully.

"I almost wish I could say I did," he sighed about one of them, a kitchen scene. "But that vase never was in my mother's kitchen."

Only 28 museums in the world own a work by Dali, according to Morse. He attributes this situation to a variety of things.

"Museums look on the private collector as a damn nuisance. They're suspicious of all collectors and, in the case of Dali, they simply can't get any," Morse asserted.

Another factor, the collector feels, is that surrealist Dali is "painting independently of all vogues. They look with suspicion on any man who paints in the classical style."

The would-be collector today, Morse contends, would be wise to stick to graphics. Examples of graphics by Dali are priced around $300 to $500. Everything else, he maintains, is "outrageously priced — by Vlaminck, some Dufys, even Miro. And I'm absolutely convinced most of them are fakes," he adds.

But Morse, who like his wife has written books on Dali and is writing two more at the moment, feels there is a definite gray area in the whole field of graphics.

His theory: If the artist draws it on paper or paints it on canvas, or does his own plates and prints, it is original art. But if the prints are produced by someone else, they are not for Morse.

Flying Fees For Davis Called High

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Investigative reporters for the Kansas City Star and the St. Louis Post Dispatch said today Missouri's agriculture commissioner, Dexter D. Davis of St. Joseph, spent $1,619.50 last May for a charter airplane trip to Houston, Tex. and return.

That was more than twice the commercial air cost for Davis and four of his supervisory employes, said Star reporter T. Wayne Mitchell and Louis J. Rose of the Post Dispatch.

The plane that time and on a number of other flights chartered by Davis was rented from Roy G. Horridge Jr., a Kansas City charter service operator and an honorary colobel on the staff of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

In calendar 1969 and the first half of this year, the report said $21,541.63 was paid to Horridge Enterprises by the agriculture department. During the same period the department spent $9,498.21 on commercial airline flights.

Davas defended the Houston charter by saying that some papers were late in preparation and besides the group carried quite a few pounds of hams and other gifts to Houston meetings of the Mid-America International Agri-Trade Council, the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture and a supermarket convention.

Davis also defended his flights to and from his home at St. Joseph by saying they were business trips in behalf of the department. He denied he was making the state pay for his commuting.

Fourth TV Network Opens Monday

By Editorial Research Reports

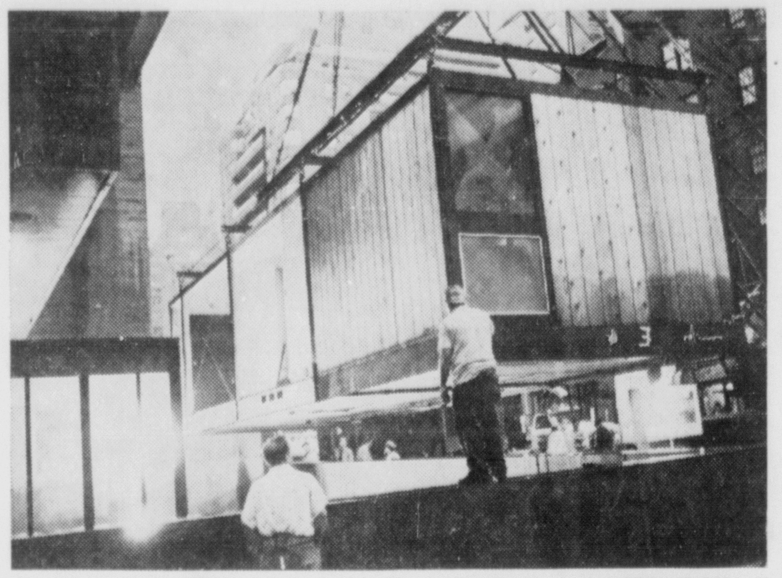

WASHINGTON — The Public Broadcase System, no longer burdened by the name National Educational Television, opens its new season Monday, with fond hopes of living up to its billing as the "fourth network." By whatever name it is known, non-commercial television seeks to offer the viewer a difference this fall.

Nothing exemplifies the difference quite like "Civilisation," as the English spell it, a 13-week series produced by BBC to great acclaim in Britain. When the National Gallery of Art in Washington obtained the filmed series last year for showing on a movie screen, nothing had prepared the gallery's staff for the overwhelming response. Crowds lined up hours in advance several times a day, week after week, from winter through summer for a visual tour of Western culture as guided by art historian Kenneth Clark.

But, alas, the series went begging for a sponsor on the commercial networks. Only on non-commercial TV, it seemed, could such tastes be catered to -- an only there because of a timely grant from the Xerox Corporation expressly for the broadcast of "Civilisation." Money problems may be eased somewhat in the months ahead. The Corporation for Public Broadcasting will receive $30 million from Congress this fiscal year, twice as much as last year, if a bill passed by the House on Sept. 10 is accepted by the Senate.

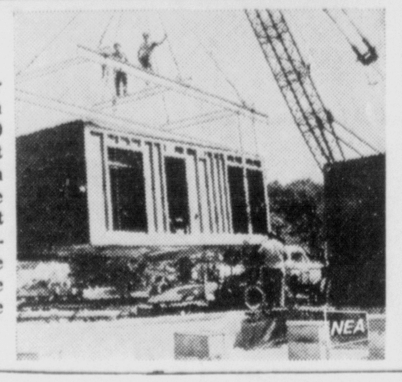

Eight new nationally scheduled programs, in addition to "Civilisation," will be shown on many of the nation's 198 public television stations in the coming season. They include the "Nader Report," depicting Ralph Nader's continuing fight for consumer causes, and "Black Frontier," telling of the Negro's contriubution to American development. Awardwinning "Sesame Street" will be back. So will "Kukla, Fran and Ollie," the puppets who were viewed by a lot of today's parents when they were children.

Instant House

Prefabricated modules may be the answer to urban housing problems. It has been predicted the structures will make up 90 per cent of new U.S. homes within the next decade. In New York City (above) a 10-ton module is lowered into courtyard of the Whitney Museum. The General Shelter unit is one of four which form a two-story townhouse set up in less than 24 hours in the heart of Manhattan. At right, a crane places modular section for a new low-rise apartment building in Bradford, Pa.
